Princess Grace Loses Family Fight Over Stephanie's Sizzling Romance

FURIOUS Grace is horrified by new romance.

IS THIS A PRINCESS? Rebellious Stephanie wearing jeans and smoking in public.

Princess Grace has lost out in a family fight over young Stephanie's sizzling romance with a playboy — with Caroline, Albert and even Prince Rainier lining up on Stephanie's side.

The result? Young Jean-Paul Belmondo Jr., 20, and 17-year-old Stephanie have been dating all over Paris and openly necking in public.

Stephanie even insisted on bringing Belmondo to her $250,000 high school graduation bash.

The rebellious young princess defied her mother further by drinking and chain-smoking at the party. Then, with her brother Albert, she egged their pals to toss girls in evening gowns into the pool. Even worse, Stephanie then disappeared into a private cabana with Belmondo at 3 a.m., witnesses say.

Stephanie started dating hell-raising Belmondo — son of French actor Jean-Paul Belmondo — last spring. Grace strenuously objected. Originally, Caroline, 25, was on her mother's side, agreeing that Stephanie should stay away from him, say sources.

But then Stephanie persuaded her big sister to change her mind about Belmondo, said a confidante. And when Grace went to the U.S. before Easter, "They went out on double dates several times. One night both sisters went with Belmondo to L'Apocalypse, the Paris disco.

"Caroline asked photographers there not to take pictures of Stephanie so their mother would not know she was there!"

But when Grace returned home, she learned the truth — and exploded in fury, said the confidante.

Then in July, Grace planned a gigantic bash for Stephanie's graduation, staging a quarter of a million-dollar dusk-to-dawn party at the Monte Carlo Beach Club and inviting some 200 wealthy jet-set guests, including European royalty.

Grace arranged for a 10-piece orchestra to be specially flown in from New York to play during the opulent caviar, champagne and gourmet food dinner.

But then Stephanie insisted that she wouldn't go to her own party ... unless Jean-Paul was her escort, said a friend of Stephanie.

"And the rest of the family backed her up. Caroline and Albert both like Belmondo. Even Prince Rainier is fond of him. They stood behind Stephanie 100 percent," a friend of Grace added.

Grace gave in on the condition that Stephanie behave herself at the party, and neither smoke nor drink, say sources.

But once at the bash, dressed in a beautiful pink and blue taffeta gown, Stephanie "started chain-smoking and drinking," said Stephanie's friend.

And about 1 a.m., "Stephanie and a dozen boys raced away and returned wearing swimsuits," recalled a guest.

"Shrieking and laughing, they

SHOCKER: Stephanie and playboy boyfriend kissed and cuddled in public.

started climbing to the top diving board and jumping off.

"Grace was so embarrassed she had to hide her face.

"Prince Albert joined the group and then, urged on by Stephanie and Albert, the boys began throwing their dates, one by one, into the pool, ruining many evening gowns that cost thousands of dollars."

And then, to make matters even worse, "Stephanie disappeared with Belmondo into a cabana about 3 a.m.," said Stephanie's friend.

Added a family friend, "Finally Grace decided that enough was enough. She grabbed Rainier by the arm, kissed her friends goodbye and they left."

Grace is also having problems with Caroline, who seems to have gone back to her wild ways. Recently she took off to Hawaii with tennis star Guillermo Vilas, staying with him in a seedy $30-a-night hotel room for 11 days — while her frantic family telephoned around the world searching for her.

Grace seems to have lost her battle trying to control her wild daughters, said an insider.

Added the confidante: "These two girls are incredible. They are raising eyebrows everywhere they go with their outrageous behavior."

No Human Scum Is Gonna Push Me Around!

... Says Granny Who Disarmed a Knife-Wielding Punk

Great-grandmother Violet Chapman was watching TV late last June 23 when she found herself facing a knife-wielding intruder. But the feisty 70-year-old widow from Auburndale, Fla., disarmed the robber and ran him out. Here, exclusively for ENQUIRER readers, Mrs. Chapman tells her dramatic story.

By VIOLET CHAPMAN

Enough's enough! It's time for every hardworking American to stand up and shout: "We're not gonna take it from these good-for-nothing punks anymore!"

For sure, no yellow-bellied human scum is gonna push me around.

I bet the young slob who broke into my trailer one night last June thought I'd be easy prey ... an old gray-haired lady living alone.

I was watching TV just before midnight, when suddenly I glanced up to see a muscular brute in his 20s standing over me, waving a 10-inch knife near my face.

"Just do as I say, lady, and you won't get hurt. Any trouble ... and you will!" he snarled, towering over me.

I was terrified, and could feel my heart pounding in fear. At the same time I was mad as hell! But I decided that for the time being I had to play along.

GUTSY Violet Chapman holds knife and chain like ones intruder had.

"Get your purse!" he ordered. I did and calmly handed him all the money I had — about $16. He snatched it away and demanded more. I told him that was all I had.

That made him furious. "Sit on the bed — I'm gonna tie you up," he snapped. His words sent a chill through me. Terrible visions of being mutilated — or worse — flashed through my mind. I had to do something — fast!

As he began rummaging through my closet to find something to tie me with I saw him relax his grip on that deadly knife. I lunged for it, grabbing the cold blade and ripping it from his grasp. Then I flipped it around and held the blade near his face. With my other hand I grabbed the gold chain around his neck. He jumped away and the chain broke.

"T-t-take it easy, take it easy, lady," he whined.

I rarely use bad language but I hissed at him through gritted teeth: "You son of a bitch! You get out of here or I'll kill you! You scum!"

He turned, scrambled outside, and scurried away like a scared dog with his tail between his legs. It's a sight I'll always treasure.

The sooner every honest American teaches these cowards a lesson, the better our country is going to be.

LITTLEST DOC

By DAN SCHWARTZ

Dr. Luis Carlos Trindade, the shortest doctor in the world, stands just 3 feet 9 inches tall — the height of a 5-year-old boy!

FIRST IN LINE: Dr. Trindade at medical school graduation.

STEP STOOL aids doctor in surgery.

He weighs only 69 pounds, and to reach an operating table he's forced to stand on a ladder or bench.

But what he lacks in size he makes up in courage and determination.

"I got where I am because of religion and faith ... plus a lot of hard work and sacrifice," says the dedicated physician.

The former pediatrician, now a pathologist, never goes to the hospital — Brazil's Sao Vicente de Paula Institute — without stopping by the children's ward.

"When Dr. Trindade comes in for a visit, the children accept him as if he's Santa Claus. They just love him," said Janete Moraes, mother of a 6-year-old patient. "Children are usually afraid of doctors and hospitals, but Dr. Trindade's their size and the children think he's one of them."

"He gave my son a shot — and my son didn't even cry!"

Dr. Trindade used to perform surgery when he was a pediatrician and still participates in operations as a pathologist. "A bench or a ladder are my constant companions, whether I'm washing my face, brushing my teeth, working over a microscope, lecturing a class or participating in surgery."

Being a pint-size doctor has its embarrassing moments, Dr. Trindade said.

"New patients will enter my office and ask me where the doctor is. When I tell them I'm the doctor, it's not uncommon that I have to treat them for shock before getting around to the original problem."

"Once I was barred entrance to the hospital when a new guard took over. He just didn't want to believe that I was a doctor."

"And while working in pediatrics, I had trouble taking children to the radiology department for exams. I had to enlist the aid of a 7-year-old to push the elevator button for me."

Dr. Trindade's wife Odete — a normal-size woman at 5 feet 4 — says, "He's no different from other husbands in the respect that he's very macho and jealous. But he's also very cute and affectionate."

Dr. Trindade, 37, who hopes to establish a cancer institute in southern Brazil, revealed that he became a doctor to repay the kindness he received as a child.

"When I was about 4 years old, I stopped growing. I was taken to doctors all over Brazil but none of them could diagnose the cause of my lack of growth. Even today my case remains undiagnosed.

DWARFED BY BEDS in children's ward, Dr. Trindade uses stethoscope on young patient who is already taller than he is.

Children Love Him Like Santa Claus

"My head and trunk are normal, it's my limbs that are small," explained the doctor.

"The doctors who tried to help me when I was a boy treated me so well that I decided to become a doctor. I wanted to be able to treat people as kindly as I'd been treated."

As a teacher of medicine, Dr. Trindade gets high marks from his students. "He is the most fantastic teacher I have ever had," said medical student Tania Vidalis. "He may be short in stature, but he's 10 feet tall when it comes to character and dignity."

Federal Paychecks Are One-Third Fatter Than in Private Firms

Federal workers receive salaries that average 35.5 percent higher than salaries in private business, 42 percent higher than the paychecks of state and local government workers, and 52 percent higher than pay for assembly-line and factory workers.

Based on the high pay and benefits for federal workers, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce has suggested that a fair and proper way to reduce the government's budget deficit for fiscal year 1983 would be to freeze both federal pay and pensions.

A new substance derived from vitamin A killed precancerous cells in the lungs of 74 percent of heavy smokers — even while they continued to smoke the same amount of cigarettes, say European doctors.

Left untreated, such precancerous cells often turn to cancer.

In this country, the prestigious National Cancer Institute (NCI) is "impressed" by the cancer-killing potential of the substance — called a retinoid — and clinical trials on similar derivatives of vitamin A are already underway here.

"I think this is really the first step in the prevention of lung cancer," said Dr. Joaquim Gouveia, who helped coordinate the first cancer trials of retinoids at France's Paul-Brousse Hospital for cancer research.

"We have basically resisted the effects of tobacco smoke in smokers by using the retinoid."

The trials were led by Dr. Georges Mathe, professor of oncology at the University of Paris, who said:

"This is encouraging news and new hope for millions of smokers around the world who cannot stop smoking."

Explaining the results of the trials — which were published in the noted British medical journal The Lancet — Dr. Mathe said:

"We were looking for a drug-related route to safer smoking. We chose this retinoid, which had already shown in previous research to have the effect we were looking for.

"In the trials, we used 106 smokers who smoke 20 to 40 or more cigarettes a day."

The smokers were chosen after doctors had found precancerous lesions, called metaplasia, in their lungs.

"We specifically asked them not to stop or reduce their smoking, and to take the retinoid capsule orally once a day for the trial period of six months," said Dr. Mathe.

"In 74 percent of the 27 cases so far assessed, the retinoid brought about a significant reduction in the precancerous lesions. Many with moderate degrees of metaplasia were reduced to below the high risk category."

"In others, the reduction was significant enough to suggest further regression with continued use of the retinoid. The effectiveness has now been proved."

said retinoids have shown strong anticancer results in animals — and it appears promising that the same will hold true for human beings.

The spokesman added: "We at the NCI are impressed by the real promise retinoids show in the chemoprevention of cancer."

"I can confirm that human trials are already under way in the U.S. in the area of cancer prevention using retinoids. It is expected that in five years we'll have the initial results."

The substance, in pill form, is available by prescription in Switzerland and Britain under the name Tigason. It is being used there to treat psoriasis. It will also be available in France within a few months.

While the American Cancer Society says the research looks promising, they add that the best way to prevent lung cancer is to stop smoking.

Stuck-Up Car

This car's stuck — but not in traffic! To advertise its new super-strong glue, a British company used the product to stick this Ford — which weighs about one ton — to a London billboard. The manufacturers say they used just nine retail-sized tubes of the sticky stuff to glue a bracket to the car's underside (below), then bolted the bracket to the billboard.

Sneak Preview What You'll Be Seeing on 'Dallas' Next Season

"Dallas" will explode across your TV screen this fall as producers battle "Dynasty" for the top series slot — with more sin, skin and sizzle than ever before.

The ENQUIRER has cracked the tight security surrounding the prime-time soap opera to bring readers the secrets of the new fall season. Insiders reveal:

By TONY BRENNAN And BARBARA STERNIG

● Miss Ellie falls in love with Clayton Farlow, head of a rival oil company, and plans to marry him.

● Bobby separates from his wife Pamela and both find new lovers.

● J.R. cons his ex-wife Sue Ellen into remarriage to get control of his baby son's oil stock.

● Lucy may bring her real-life infant onto the show as her onscreen baby.

Locked in an intense rivalry at the end of the last season, "Dallas" lost its spot as first place series to "Dynasty" on May 2. "Dallas," which had gone into reruns, fell to number 26 spot.

And now the Ewings are determined to be number one this fall.

"The producers of 'Dallas' have ordered sizzling hot new scripts, using as much sex and jiggle as possible in order to make sure the show is number one in the ratings," confided a close insider.

Adds another source, "The women will be a lot sexier than in the past, with heavy emphasis on clothes and fashion."

"Dresses will be low-cut and revealing."

"There will be plenty of pool scenes with bikini costumes and the actual love-making will be as passionate as the network censors will allow."

Much of the action on "Dallas" during the coming 1982-83 season will center around Miss Ellie, sources say.

Last season when actor Jim Davis — who played Jock Ewing — died, screenwriters explained Ewing's absence from the show by reporting that Jock was missing in a helicopter crash.

This season in a dramatic scene, Miss Ellie calls the family together to read Jock's will, revealed the insider.

"The will makes J.R. even more powerful in the family business, but a substantial share of the empire also goes to Bobby, who will emerge as a much more powerful and forceful figure."

"Bobby's clashes with the vicious, scheming J.R. over the future of the oil empire will lead to physical violence between them."

"But it will be Miss Ellie's new love interest that will really drive J.R. mad."

"Miss Ellie will have two suitors — oil baron Clayton Farlow as well as a character played by Dale Robertson, who was previously on 'Dynasty.'"

Robertson, who has been signed for six episodes, will play a wealthy widowed oilman who romances Miss Ellie, but the screenwriters have not yet decided what will happen to his character, confided a "Dallas" executive.

Meanwhile, Farlow courts Miss Ellie, said the insider.

"She falls in love with him, driving J.R. crazy with rage and fear that she will marry the major business rival to the powerful Ewing oil empire. The cliff-hanger toward the end of the season will be whether Miss Ellie goes through with her plans to marry Farlow, thus running the risk of splitting her own family."

In one dramatic scene, J.R. and Miss Ellie get into a furious battle, confided the "Dallas" executive. "J.R. bitterly tells her that she is a disgrace to his father's memory. Miss Ellie looks him straight in the eye — and slaps his face."

"The shaken J.R. leaves, vowing vengeance against his mother if the courtship with Farlow continues."

"She tells him she doesn't give a damn and that if he persists, she will make sure that he loses control of the Ewing empire."

Meanwhile, a desperate J.R. seeks a reconciliation with Sue Ellen in order to gain control of his son's stock options, explained the insider.

"He eventually cons her back, but their hatred for each other grows and they both start affairs with new characters."

Bobby and his wife Pamela will split up this season. "They will be given new love interests during their separation," said the insider.

"Whether they get back together again will be another cliff-hanger."

So far, Charlene Tilton, who plays Lucy, hasn't been involved in shooting the first eight episodes because her real-life pregnancy has ballooned her tiny figure, said a source on the set.

Producers may use Charlene's newborn baby to portray her child on the show.

Her character, Lucy, had been raped by a photographer last season, making her pregnant, the source said.

"In episodes previously shot, the new season will find Lucy separated from Mitch. It's bye-bye Mitch this fall with the character to be phased out entirely. Lucy will get a divorce from him."

The end of last season saw Cliff Barnes in the hospital, dying after a suicide attempt.

"Both Sue Ellen and Afton Cooper flew to his side," said the source on the set. "As Cliff begins to recuperate, love blossoms between him and Afton."

Said the insider, "If you were to try and summarize the appeal of the new season's 'Dallas,' it would be that the producers have decided to make the show less boardroom and more bedroom."

PLUNGING NECKLINES on sexy stars Victoria Principal and Linda Gray will be more common as "Dallas" tries to boost ratings in its battle against "Dynasty."

Spunky 11-Year-Old Proves You CAN Beat City Hall

Eleven-year-old Jonathan Simon wrote a stinging editorial about foul-mouthed, boozing Little League coaches in a neighborhood newspaper he publishes — and small-minded bureaucrats tried to put him out of business.

But the spunky sixth grader beat the red-tape brigade.

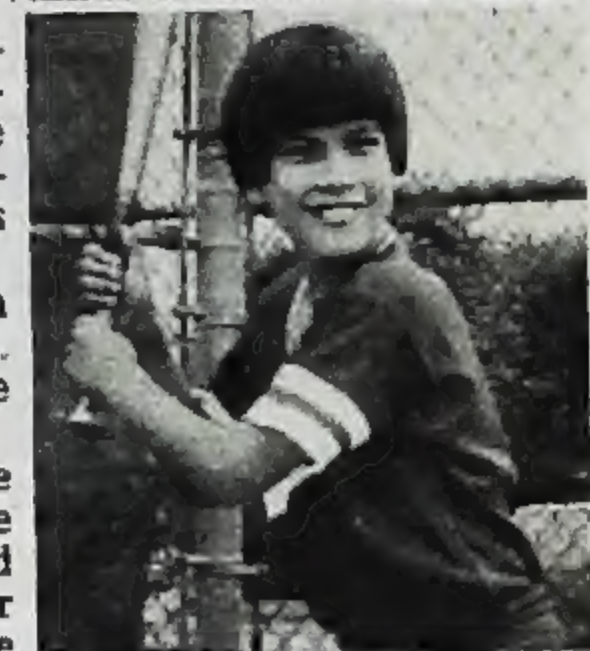

Today, he's still publishing his 25-cent newspaper — the Fluke Press — and the controversy has sent circulation soaring from 50 copies per month to 100.

But a lot of angry folks in Monmouth Beach, N.J. (pop. 3,318) still don't like what he wrote. Said Jonathan:

"I got anonymous phone calls in the middle of the night. And then unordered food started arriving at our house. People see me on the street and say, 'Your paper stinks!'"

"But this won't keep me from criticizing people in my editorials." Jonathan described three kinds of coaches that didn't set good examples — the drinking coach, the cursing coach and the overdriving coach who pushes kids too hard.

He ended the editorial:

"A good coach is someone who has good manners, does not drink or set a bad example, who treats the game as constructional recreation, points out mistakes calmly, and — most important of all — enjoys the game."

Hackles went up all over town. And the zoning office fired off a letter saying he wasn't allowed to publish a newspaper from his home.

But when Jonathan went to see code enforcement officer Louis Cosentino, "he started giving me lectures about what I wrote."

EDITORIAL about Little League coaches in Jonathan's paper sparked a major league controversy.

Then the youngster attended a meeting of the mayor, the town commissioners and Cosentino. "They were telling me I might get sued for slander. I told them I thought that would be violating my rights under the first amendment."

Jonathan got around the zoning problem with one slick move — he relocated The Fluke Press to his father's office.

He also got support from a New Jersey paper, the Asbury Park Press, which ran an editorial supporting his right to publish.

A Monmouth Beach zoning official, assistant code enforcement officer Jim Fuller, denied anything was said about what Jonathan wrote, insisting that the case was "blown out of proportion."

Said Jonathan's uncle, at torney Fred Simon: "From the facts before me, I'd have to say the officials went after him because of his editorial. But he outfoxed them. God bless him, he's a gutsy little guy."

SUPERBABY

Boy Weighs 22 Pounds at Birth — And Groans as Loud as a Man

Superbaby Sithandive Simane was so big at birth — a monstrous 22½ pounds — that the nurses fled the delivery room in terror.

The whopping bundle of joy groaned as loud as a grown man and measured an incredible two feet, three inches long when he was born May 24 in a remote South African hospital.

Sithandive — who was more than three times the size of a normal newborn — has been confirmed by the Guinness Book of World Records as the "heaviest weight for a baby who subsequently survived."

Now he drinks as much milk as a 1-year-old child. But otherwise Sithandive, whose name means "we are blessed," is developing normally.

His mother, 33-year-old Mrs. Christina Simane of Tabankulu, Transkei, South Africa, had a routine pregnancy. But all that changed a month before the baby was due when she started getting very tired. Dr. Grenville Machado took X-rays and decided to deliver the baby by cesarean section.

Dr. Machado said: "The X-rays showed he was large. But when I delivered him, I was stunned and said a quick prayer to God hoping that he was normal. His first cry was loud and deep. The nurses got such a fright they ran away. The umbilical cord was as thick as a man's arm, like a piece of rope."

"We have no idea why he was so big. We tested him and luckily we found nothing amiss. His behavior seems normal and his limb movements are normal," he added.

Mrs. Simane says her superbaby behaves just like her three other children did at his age.

"The only difference is that he drinks more milk than they did and he's so heavy my arms get tired from holding him," she confided.

Ricky Nelson's Divorce — Open Warfare

Former teen idol Ricky Nelson is embroiled in one of Hollywood's nastiest divorces.

Nelson has been ordered to explain to a California court why he shouldn't be held in contempt for ignoring its order to pay $6,400 in back child support.

His estranged wife, Kristin, is charging that he's been ducking a previous court order to pay up.

And in earlier court documents filed by Kristin, 38, she charged that:

✓ The 42-year-old singer has "a severe drug problem" and "constantly takes cocaine, Quaaludes and many other drugs."

✓ He allows "wild parties to take place in his home at all hours, during which drugs are always taken."

✓ The couple's four children, ranging in age from 7 to 18, "are literally in physical danger" because of the "drugged and unpredictable persons" that hang around Nelson's house.

And Kristin asked that Nelson be subjected to "a psychiatric examination."

In a counterclaim filed in court, Nelson said his wife's charges were "glaringly inconsistent" because she'd allowed three of their four children to live with him — even though she had legal custody of two of them.

Said a longtime friend of the couple: "It started out friendly enough, but the divorce has really gotten ugly and nasty. Kris told me, 'I'm bitter and Ricky's bitter. Who the hell does he think he is? When I married him, everyone said that we were the all-American couple. But now if I ever see him, I just want to scream. Everyone thinks he's sweet Ricky. Well, he's not sweet Ricky anymore."

The Nelsons married in 1963. Kristin played Nelson's love interest on the "Ozzie and Harriet" TV series he appeared on with his parents.

Kristin first filed for divorce in 1977, then the couple reconciled. Kristin filed again in 1980 — and soon the divorce action exploded into open warfare.

Kristin now charges that Nelson owes $6,402.83 in medical and school expenses for the children. Nelson, who spends most of the time performing as a singer on the road, made $850,000 on a recent tour, Kristin claims.

On June 29, Kristin said in court papers that three persons tried to serve Nelson with the court's order to explain why he hadn't paid the child support. But they were unable to do so because he "appears to be concealing himself to avoid service of the order."

A close friend of Nelson said: "Rick told me, 'I resent the fact that Kris is telling my children that I use drugs and that I am a bad father. I love my kids like any father does. My life is miserable because of this ugly divorce.'"

Prairie Dogs Carve Vast Underground Cities & Have A Unique Security System

Prairie dogs live in huge underground cities and have their own identification system — a special kiss that alerts them to other prairie dogs who don't belong.

The prairie dogs touch mouths or the front teeth in a manner known only to their own group, or "coterie." Sometimes they lock their front teeth behind the front teeth of the other animal and then may turn their heads sideways.

If the other animal recognizes the kiss, it will reciprocate the same way, says prairie dog expert Dr. Timothy Clark, Ph.D.

If the other animal doesn't recognize the kiss, it's obviously an outsider — and will flee, said Dr. Clark, a biology researcher at Idaho State University.

It's all part of the fascinating life-style of the prairie dog, a burrowing rodent about the size of a gray squirrel, which lives on the Western plains.

Each coterie has its own grazing area aboveground. But prairie dogs spend most of their lives in underground burrows that can run anywhere from 1 to 20 feet below the surface. Many of the tunnels are connected underground so the animals can mingle.

INCREDIBLE WORLD OF

In their burrows, the mother prairie dogs give birth to litters of two to 10 pups.

Sometimes several coterie combine into a prairie dog town stretching for 160 acres or more, with as many as 12 to 15 dogs per acre.

The small prairie dogs, which weigh about 2 pounds, have a unique warning system. While grazing aboveground, the whole community takes part in a constant watch for danger.

"Each is out looking all the time, while they do their other activities," said Dr. Clark, who's been studying the animals for 20 years. "They pause every few minutes and look around. If they perceive danger, they bark."

KISS AND TELL: Prairie dogs kiss each other to identify members of their group.

That bark is passed along from dog to dog. In less than a minute every prairie dog within a square mile has run for shelter, he said. "Within a minute or two, the warning can cover 30 to 40 acres. Like a frontier village, everyone is on the alert for the enemy."

67 Hard-to-Adopt Children Featured in Enquirer Find Homes Full of Love

They were the children nobody wanted ... until The ENQUIRER stepped in and ran their heart-tugging true stories.

Now, thanks to caring people across the country, an incredible 67 of these hard-to-adopt youngsters have found homes — and more happiness than they ever believed possible. "These children are truly blossoming in their new families," says Peggy Soule, executive director of the CAP BOOK adoption organization which has cooperated with The ENQUIRER in our two-year-long adoption series.

What's more, adoptions are pending for hundreds more!

"ENQUIRER readers are writing in by the thousands," said Soule.

"Your readers have opened their hearts and their homes to these unfortunate children. It's as if The ENQUIRER's family of readers has become a huge, loving, extended family for all these kids."

Our generous readers have even helped the CAP BOOK stay in business. Responding to an appeal for operating funds, they contributed $38,888 to the private group so it can continue its important work.

More than 23,000 letters have been received from ENQUIRER readers in response to our weekly stories.

"It's fantastic!" said Soule. "Many of the readers who write in aren't able to adopt — but they've reached out to these desperately lonely youngsters with gifts, cards, letters and prayers."

Here's what has happened to some of the 27 youngsters who've been adopted — thanks to The ENQUIRER and our readers — since Christmas 1981:

Nine-year-old Aaron, a victim of spina bifida, now lives with a permanent family — complete with three brothers, also adopted.

Denise, 10, and her 13-year-old brother Michael — abandoned by their parents — were terrified they'd be separated. But now they've joined a family together.

Other kids who've been adopted include: Darren, 5; Julie, 6; Peter, 7; Frank, 16; Ronnie, 13; Mark, 5; David, 13; another David, 6; Joe, 13; Nicholas, 4; Kerry, 9; Ricky, 7; Joshua, 4; Jimmy, 12; Sean, 12; Pam, 14; James, 9; Gina, 9; Tracy, 8; Cherise, 7; Flora, 10, and Sally, 14.

"Thanks to The ENQUIRER series, there's a lot of love growing out there and a great deal of joy," said Peggy Soule.

Little Boy Finds Happiness And a Miracle

By CHARLES PARMITER

"Mama ... mama ..." It was a simple word for most 3-year-olds to say, but for little Carl — who's deaf and legally blind — it was a miracle!

But the biggest miracle of all is the change that's come over the mentally retarded youngster in the two months since he joined the big happy family of Betty and Richard Jackson of Ojai, Calif.

Now the tyke, who couldn't even sit up by himself when he was adopted, not only sits, but scoots around in a stroller and even stands up with a little help.

"He was absolutely lovable from the first moment I held him," recalled Betty. "I hugged him and a big smile crossed his face! His big brown eyes lit up. And I knew we had found a little angel."

The Jacksons — parents of six of their own children and three adopted ones — spotted little Carl in The ENQUIRER last November. He's the second of their children to come through our adoption series. Last year, they welcomed Vickie, a 4-year-old.

And now Carl — whose mother gave him up at birth — has a brand new name as well as a new home. The family calls him "Bion" — a name made up of letters that deaf people are able to pronounce easily. One day, they hope, Bion will be able to say his own name.

"When we first got him, he was quiet and withdrawn into his own little world," said Betty. "Now he's open, more loving, more and more affectionate. He'll giggle and laugh out loud all on his own."

The Jacksons work their magic with constant therapy. The little guy has won the hearts of a whole new fan club — nine loving big brothers and sisters, who call him "our little teddy bear."

Said 11-year-old Peter — who was deaf himself until he was 4 — "When you pick him up, his little hands feel for your face, or he pulls at your shirt, laughing and hugging you like a little teddy bear."

"One day I'm going to teach him sign language. He may be deaf and blind, but he still knows how to love!"

'That's the Child We Want'

As long as she lives, Eileen Green will never forget the excitement and hope in the voice of her new son Austin as she heard his first words come over the phone.

"He said to me, 'Is this my mommy?'" she recalled.

"It was so touching, it just melted my heart."

For the first two years of his life, Austin — now 3½ — had known only trouble. Born prematurely, he suffered a slight case of cerebral palsy and was plagued by other health problems. His mother gave him up for adoption.

But his life turned around when Eileen and Isiah Green, a young couple in Aurora, Colo., spotted Austin's story in the Dec. 15, 1981, issue of The ENQUIRER.

"As soon as I saw his picture and read the article, I knew Austin was the child we wanted!" said Eileen.

The couple immediately applied to adopt the boy — and in February a caseworker said they'd been chosen. That's when Eileen first got to speak to her future son.

The family went to pick up Austin at a foster home where he was staying, recalled Isiah. "When he first saw me, his big brown eyes lit up. He smiled, hugged me and said, 'This is my daddy.' He just wouldn't let go of me. It was such a joyous moment. It made my heart soar!"

The family took him back home with them, and, said Eileen, "He warmed up to us fast. In a day or two he was telling us all about himself and his favorite toys. We could hardly get a word in, he's so talkative!"

Isiah said the couple's 7-year-old daughter Stephanie gets along terrifically well with Austin. They play together all the time ... and Austin entertains the whole family.

"He's not shy," said Eileen. "He walks up to people, points to us and says, 'That's my dad! That's my mom! That's my big sister!'"

Boondoggle in Borneo Burns Your Tax $$

By PAUL F. LEVY

Bumble-brained bureaucrats at the tax-supported National Science Foundation (NSF) are shelling out $39,035 of your hard-earned tax money to study social change among the obscure Berusu people of Indonesian Borneo.

The NSF says the researchers' study plans to identify "how institutions introduced from the outside — particularly formal education, agricultural technology and Christian missions — have generated changes in the structure of society and the mechanism by which these changes have been incorporated into the system of rules that govern Berusu life."

Continuing their gobbledegook, the NSF said that the results "will make an important and original contribution to our understanding of the causes, consequences and processes of social change in agricultural communities."

But Sid Taylor, research director of the National Taxpayers Union, says that the study is just pure and simple waste.

"It's about time they studied the outrage of the American taxpayer who has to pay for studies like this one," he fumed.

"I doubt whether the overburdened taxpayer will get much of a thrill out of such waste of his tax payments."

How You Can Be More Popular

By SUSAN KRAJEWSKI

You can become more popular without changing your basic personality, says a top expert.

Almost everyone falls into one of four basic personality types, which are listed below. Find the one that best describes you — then simply follow the expert's tips for your type.

1. The "driving" personality is action-oriented, independent, competitive and always in a hurry to get things done.

To become more popular, such people should take time to listen. Ask for others' opinions and don't be afraid to adopt their suggestions. Try to make small talk and convey your enthusiasm for others' ideas.

2. The "expressive" personality is warm, communicative and easy to talk to. Such people are imaginative and creative and often operate on gut instinct so it's easy for them to make mistakes.

Keep a regular check on your actions to become more popular. Consider others' reactions to what you say and do — don't "shoot from the hip" so often. Don't be afraid to admit that you're wrong. Act confident without appearing cocky and aggressive. Be more businesslike at work, rather than getting emotionally involved with people.

3. The "analytical" personality lives according to facts and logic. They're thinkers who are cautious about their personal relationships and avoid flashiness.

This type should strive to be more honest and open when talking to others. Try to be warm and sincere, and leave technical jargon and abstract concepts out of your conversations. Take the initiative and express an opinion, even if you don't have all the facts.

4. The "amiable" personality is known as a soft touch. Such people place a great deal of emphasis on close personal relationships. They are very socially oriented and usually don't like to take chances on making a decision.

The "amiable" personality should vow to stick to his goals, even if it causes stress in a relationship. Speak up when you disagree with someone — honest disagreement shows interest and respect.

Let other people know you expect them to "give" in a relationship, too.

The information in the above article is from psychologist Dr. David Merrill, coauthor of "Personal Styles and Effective Performance."

Just Killing Time

June always brings a bumper crop of weddings. In Reno, Nev., the line of guys and gals waiting their turn at the marriage license window was so long that they brought their lunches.

One day a baby was heard crying somewhere near the head of the line. A hush fell over the crowd while they listened to the crying infant.

The silence was suddenly shattered by a burst of laughter as a young prospective bride exclaimed in a weary voice, "I wonder how long they've been waiting!"

Andy Gibb Flips for Singer In Red-Hot New York Fling

By ELLEN GOODSTEIN

Sultry singer Tanya Tucker and rock idol Andy Gibb made beautiful music together during a sizzling New York fling — and helped mend each other's broken hearts.

"Tanya is love-struck!" revealed a close friend of the fiery songstress.

And a source close to Andy revealed: "He's flipped over her."

Sparks flew the moment they ran into each other at the trendy New York disco Studio 54 on Thursday, July 29. They were inseparable until Andy flew to Toronto the following Monday, insiders say.

"When Tanya and Andy spotted each other out on the dance floor, they were drawn together like magnets," said an insider.

"Tanya didn't leave Andy's side for a minute. They were dancing and talking, holding hands and hugging until the wee hours of the morning."

Afterward Tanya went home with Andy to his hotel suite, the insider added. Friday night they shared a romantic dinner at Cafe Central, an out-of-the-way celebrity restaurant. And on Saturday, the two discoed the night away at Xenon's, sources said.

The friend added: "Tanya was constantly at Andy's side. He even postponed leaving for Toronto as long as he could. He begged Tanya to go with him, but she couldn't because of business she had in New York."

But all that's changed now. Tanya's friend confided: "Tanya told me, 'Andy really understands. He knows just how I feel because he's been there, too. We're really able to talk to each other.'"

Added another insider: "Tanya's and Andy's romance may not signal wedding bells, but it's clear that their New York fling is what the doctor ordered. They've put the shine back in each other's eyes."

Victoria Principal to Quit 'Dallas'

By ALASTAIR GREGOR and JOHN COOKE

Victoria Principal exiting "Dallas." She's fed up because her Pam character's turned stale — and surprisingly, producers agreed to phase her out of the series in the middle of the new fall TV season because they feel her constant money demands and temper tantrums disrupt the show. Victoria's thrilled because she's got a big-bucks offer for another prime-time series.

"M*A*S*H" star Alan Alda flew into a rage when a photog tried to snap pictures of him exiting an LA eatery with a young blonde he'd been cozy with over lunch. Alda shouted, "I have nothing to hide," and carried on yelling while people on the sidewalk stopped and stared. Alda finally huffed off saying, "You have really caused me terrible pain."

***
Archie Bunker's wedding is off! Following The ENQUIRER's report that Archie — played by Carroll O'Connor — would marry his Puerto Rican girlfriend on "Archie Bunker's Place" this coming season, thousands of letters poured in to the series' execs objecting to Archie remarrying. Now, because of the viewer revolt, Archie will simply continue dating the gal — plus some other ladies.

Close call for "Rich Man, Poor Man" star Peter Strauss near war-torn Beirut. Strauss, who'd been cheering up Israeli troops, was riding a military bus during a cease-fire. But suddenly, a rocket blasted down just 40 yards away, throwing up sand and shrapnel. Miraculously no one was hurt.

***
Still in top shape after four years on "Dallas," Fern Fitzgerald — who plays Marilee Stone — works out regularly by dancing her way through the modern jazz routines that she learned when she was a Radio City Music Hall Rockette. Fern will need to be in tip-top shape this season. Her role's been beefed up, and she'll become J.R.'s archrival in the oil business.

Former "Charlie's Angels" cutie Cheryl Ladd's flying to Monaco in a last-ditch attempt to get Princess Grace's royal blessing for a TV movie of her life that stars Cheryl as Grace. The Princess has frowned on the flick, but Cheryl's sure she can change Grace's mind. Cheryl's so serious about the Close pals of former "All in the Family" star Rob "Meathead" Reiner worried because he's in "a state of extremely deep depression." And he's gained about 30 pounds. Pals say Rob wants a reconciliation with estranged wife Penny Marshall, but she isn't interested.

"One Day at a Time" star Glenn "Alex" Scarpelli got some birthday ice cream playfully dabbed on his nose by 18-year-old Dana Hill, who starred on "The Two of Us." Dana flew from LA to New York to surprise Glenn on his 15th birthday, and she's telling pals that she's really sweet on him.

Eastwood Dyes His Hair Red

By R. Couri Hay

Monaco's Princess Stephanie went bananas at a posh Monte Carlo niterie. The royal teen and eight pals danced wildly and knocked over tables and chairs. The mini-skirted princess walked on three tables, then rolled up her shirt and staged a wild belly dance — right in the faces of stunned patrons... Being a grandma's a pain in the back for Lucille Ball. She wrenched it trying to pick up her grandson, Simon, and couldn't straighten up. Lucy was rushed to a doc who taped her up. Now she is in traction at home.

Robert Mitchum thrust his beefy palm between two fellows fighting in a BevHills eatery parking lot. Bob's hand deflected a blow — and the attacker ended up screaming with an injured wrist... Diane Keaton left a $10,000 diamond ring on the ladies' room sink at a Big Apple eatery. Luckily an honest gal turned it in to the hostess — who recognized the rock as Diane's. The thankful star, who was still at her table, gifted the woman who found the ring with a bottle of champagne.

Big spender Barbra Streisand swept into a swank Rome shop, shelled out $25,000 for a lynx coat and was out in five minutes. Didn't even try it on. Too hot, she said.

Who was that red-haired fellow exiting a BevHills beauty salon after hours? Clint Eastwood! Clint had his locks dyed for a new movie, and paid the owner $1,000 to do the job once everyone else left. He didn't want to be mobbed... She's 80, but film legend Irene Dunne's not done dating! Looking radiant as ever, Irene's stepping out with film exec William Frye.

Screen queen Marlene Dietrich, a recluse in her Paris apartment at 80, has suddenly taken to phoning friends in the wee hours because she's lonely. Sympathetic pals endured the wake-up calls at first, but now they're hanging up, making Marlene feel lonelier than ever, say close friends.

A hysterical mob of over 200 fans charged horrified Liz Taylor as she exited a B'way theater. It took 10 cops — three on horseback — to battle a path to her limo... And how was your week?

The City Where Dogs Live Like Kings

There's no such thing as leading a dog's life in Paris — because the French capital's canines get treated like kings!

The tail-waggers frequent special health spas, have their own plastic surgeons, enjoy all kinds of doggy accessory apparel — and get gourmet meals at fancy restaurants.

"Parisians are very proud that their city is the pampered dog capital of the world," says Paris publisher Paule Truchaud. "Why not? Dogs are lovable, warm creatures who provide constant companionship and pleasure for their owners."

Dogs are welcome in all restaurants to dine with their masters, and many hotels even allow your pooch to stay with you.

Swanky Maxim's restaurant — one of the world's most expensive — will prepare a dish of rice, green beans and meat for your dog, included in the price of your meal, says Barbi Baker, a Paris writer who investigated Paris' pooch craze. "The only condition is the dog must eat on the floor, not at the table."

"At the fashionable Brasserie Lipp, it costs about $7 to feed your pet and the menu changes daily so he won't be bored."

At doggy apparel stores, owners buy anything from felt coats to long dachshund sweaters to sheepskin vests and parkas, she said.

"Also rubber boots, raincoats and even slickers with attached umbrellas."

"And none of these things are cheap. Many dogs get hundreds, even thousands of dollars, spent on them."

Says Georges Renaud, founder of the dog magazine Chiens 2000, "Many owners prefer to have their dog sleep in the same bed and they have special nightdresses and pajamas made for them."

"Movie stars and rich people buy their dogs gold and jewel-encrusted collars and feed them nothing but the best steak, lamb, champagne, wine and chocolate every day of the week." If all that high living puts pounds on your pooch, there are dog spas featuring vibrating weight-loss machines to trim him down. You also can send him to a dog dietitian. And if nothing else works, "You can buy a contraption that straps around the dog's girth and has two wheels at the bottom to help him waddle — or slide — around," said Baker.

Veterinarian Dr. Michael Klein heads an ultramodern animal hospital.

"It is here I do the same kind of plastic surgery on dogs as you would on humans — correcting the chin, the ears, the nose, lifting wrinkles and so on to make them more beautiful and healthy," he said.

Says Renaud, "Paris may be the pampered dog capital of the world — but it is a title of which the Parisians can be proud."

World's Oldest Woman

Nancy Vine knows the secrets of long life — she's 117 years old, the oldest woman on Earth.

"When folks ask me why I have lived this long, I tell them you have to mind your own business in life, always practice the golden rule, get to bed early and be content with what the Lord gives you," Nancy told The ENQUIRER.

By ART DWORKEN

Born on Aug. 1, 1885 — the year Abe Lincoln was shot — she's just 33 days younger than Mr. Schigechiyo Izumi of Japan, listed in the Guinness Book of World Records as the oldest human being on Earth.

She was 11 when Custer made his last stand, 80 when World War 2 ended and 98 when President Kennedy was murdered. Her parents were slaves, and despite the heart-break of outliving the 11 children she and her late husband raised, Nancy is a cheerful woman, who estimates she has about 60 grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

"Young folks shouldn't worry none about getting old, that's for sure. When you get old, you find there ain't too much you can do, so just enjoy all there is to enjoy while you can," she says.

Staff members at Cedar Hills Nursing Home in Jacksonville, Fla., marvel at Nancy's physical condition and mental alertness. "Apart from needing a wheelchair to get around, following a stroke a few years ago, she's in very good health and isn't on any medication," reveals Norma Smith, the home's activities director. "Nancy doesn't wear glasses — and her teeth are still her own!"

Incredibly, Nancy is enrolled in an art class offered by Jacksonville's Junior College. She's the oldest student in the school's history.

"She loves the class," says her instructor, Crawford Johnson. "Despite her age she is so aware and alert. She has a great desire to learn."

Official Florida state records and Social Security records confirm the active oldster is indeed 117 years old. But she's young at heart enough to give advice to today's teens.

Nancy believes that "young people today burn themselves up long before they ever get as old as I am. I lived a quiet life, stayed in one place all my life (Florida) and never ran around. "I have always practiced the golden rule since I was a little girl. "I've lived a happy life."

What REALLY Makes a Marriage Happy

Independence — not togetherness — for a husband and wife is a major key to a successful marriage, a 24-year university study shows.

"In the happy marriage, two people live together but are able to operate on their own," said Dr. Eleanore B. Luckey of the University of Utah, who studied 80 married couples.

"The poorest marriages were ones where both of the partners were dependent and emotionally cold toward each other."

"This would tend to question the theory of togetherness in marriage."

The expert said her study showed that "happiness in the marriage didn't seem to be involved at all with whether the wife worked, how many children they had, whether it was a religiously mixed marriage, or the income of the couple."

Dr. Luckey, professor of human development and family studies said she found that these are the four keys to a happy marriage:

1. Strength and independence. "If a wife sees herself as being capable and independent, she's more likely to have a good, satisfactory marriage than if she sees herself as being incompetent and dependent and skeptical."

"This is because the better self-image one has, the more revealing one is apt to be and therefore more likely to share with another person." This open sharing of feelings is vital to a good relationship.

2. Trust. "In poor marriages, mates don't see their spouses as truthful. They see them as conniving. But much of the satisfaction in a marriage comes from the support one partner gives another."

"If one doesn't trust his or her partner, one wouldn't share much for fear of being hurt. If you reveal something about yourself and it's used as a club over you, that leads to distrust."

3. A healthy match of images and self-images. "The happiest marriages I studied were those in which the wife thought the same thing of the husband as he thought of himself, and vice versa."

Even if the wife sees bad qualities in the husband, the marriage can be happy as long as the husband recognizes those qualities in himself, too, Dr. Luckey said.

When images match, she noted, "one partner won't be expecting from the other partner things that are really unlike him or her."

4. Affection and warmth. "In a happy marriage the spouses spoiled people with kindness, were willing to give to others and gave freely of themselves."

Dr. Luckey offered these tips for making a marriage happy:

"Make sure both partners are independent and able to take action without dependence on the other."

"Trust your mate. And make yourself trustworthy by being honest."

"Express warmth toward your partner with gestures of love."

New "Willpower Diet Tablet" That Can Make You Skinny in 45 Days... Even If You Cheat!!!

OR DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

Have you ever tried to lose weight? Then you know that it takes a miracle to really overcome a weight problem. And you've probably tried everything from "starvation programs and painful exercises to weight reduction clinics" with little or no results.

If you are tired of the yo-yo effect and concerned about your weight you may be interested in a new "will power diet tablet" now being offered to the public by The Health Energetic Corporation.

This unique tablet was specifically developed by a group of leading nutritionists solely for the purpose of helping people who have tried other methods without success but are very serious about losing weight. It should not be used by people who only need to lose 5 or 6 pounds or those who are not highly motivated. It contains a blend of ingredients that, when taken as directed, can super-charge your energy level and, at the same time, decrease your hunger.

Why can these "willpower diet tablets" help you succeed when so many other systems have failed you? Because, in a world full of gimmicks, it's a major breakthrough. A weight loss plan that works on your hunger biologically and psychologically.

This powerful combination of tablets is being sold with a weight reduction program that has been protected by U.S. copyright law. Together, these elements are so effective that the company refuses to advertise the results!

"Why should I?" says Leo Daboub, President of The Health Energetic Corp. "If I start telling people how they can lose up to 7 pounds in the first 48 hours and then continue to blast off their excess body fat faster, even if they were running 14 miles every day, nobody would believe me anyway!"

Therefore, instead of making dramatic claims or empty promises like this, Mr. Daboub is offering a legally binding iron-clad guarantee.

The guarantee is simple. Here is the way it works. If you order the product and use it as directed for a trial period of 45-days, you must be 100% satisfied with your rapid weight loss or you are entitled to a refund of DOUBLE your entire purchase price. There are no exceptions. This guarantee is iron-clad and legally binding, regardless of your current weight level or how long you have been overweight. All that is required is that you follow the simple instructions and give the reduction program an honest chance to work for the full trial period.

However, because of the nature of this special offer, we can only guarantee delivery to the readers of this publication who respond within the next 10-days. After that, orders will be filed on a "first come first served" basis as long as supplies last.

Here is something else you should know. Even though The Energetic Weight Reduction tablets are quite powerful and effective, they are 100% safe. They can be taken over prolonged periods of time. As a matter of fact, this is one of the very few diet aids that a U.S. government panel of medical and scientific experts approved as an active ingredient for appetite control and weight loss. Besides, it is not required to have a warning on the label!

But, more important, Energetic Weight Reduction has worked wonders for overweight people...people who had given up all hope of ever losing weight. And it can work for you too—as you watch the body of your dreams emerge. Now, with our reduction program, you can:

- Burn away a maximum amount of fat in record time.
- Look fantastic in clothes you only dreamed of wearing before.
- Improve your self-image and self-confidence.
- Feel more energetic than ever as you dramatically transform your body.
- Put an end to gnawing hunger pangs.

CAUTION: As your weight begins to plummet down, you should use your good judgment and not let yourself become too thin. It is very important to eat properly. Before starting any weight loss program you should consult your physician to be sure you are in normal health.

Now then, as you might imagine, this is one diet tablet that does not come cheap. The price is $19.95, and California residents must add 6% ($1.20) for a total payment of $21.15. However, if you are serious about losing weight, you should remember that this is the only diet product on the market that is backed by a DOUBLE your money back guarantee!

No one else offers this guarantee. Weight reduction clinics don't; nor does any other group, plan, book, or program...But we at The Health Energetic Corporation do, because we know our program can work for you!

It is easy to order. All you have to do is write your name and address, and the words "Willpower Tablets" on a piece of paper and send it with your payment to:

The Health Energetic Corp.
Dept. A-159
1011 Brioso Dr. #107
Costa Mesa, CA 92627

That's all there is to it. Your order will be sent promptly by return mail.

By the way...If you prefer, you can dial, toll free, (800) 854-6917 (Calif. residents call 714-548-2271) and charge your order to your credit card. Just give the girl who answers the number and expiration date of your card and the name of this publication. P.S....If you're in the Los Angeles area, feel free to purchase your tablets direct, right over the counter, at our address above. Our office hours are 8 a.m. til 5 p.m., Mon. thru Fri.

No More a Mean Bully, Now He's Mr. Nice Guy

Quincy Tells How He Won the Battle of the Bottle

Jack Klugman has undergone a remarkable transformation, changing from a mean-mouthed petty tyrant into a relaxed, laid-back "Mr. Nice Guy" — and it's all because he gave up heavy boozing.

In an exclusive and amazingly candid interview, the star of "Quincy" revealed how his life changed miraculously since he won his battle with the bottle.

"I didn't know you could get drunk without knowing you were drunk," he said. "I was putting it away pretty good — a bottle of vodka a day. I was able to hold it and didn't realize I was getting drunk."

EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW

"I didn't know how much I was drinking until I sobered up. I wasn't a drunk — or maybe I was and didn't know it. I wasn't falling-down drunk, but I know it wasn't doing me any good."

"I feel a million percent better since I gave up the vodka. God, what a killer! I'm 60 years old and I feel better than I did at 18."

Klugman says his decision to lay off the sauce came about accidentally last January. One of his brothers, who had suffered a couple of heart attacks, had been following the Pritikin plan, which includes a low-fat diet, no alcohol and exercise to combat heart disease.

But after the brother left the Pritikin Longevity Center in Santa Monica, his health began to deteriorate and Klugman worried about him.

"So I talked him into going back, and I promised to go with him," Klugman said. "But the first three days were hell. I hated it. I wanted to push the people who work there out the windows."

"But the longer I stayed, the more I could feel myself becoming clearer in the head. My bodily functions also improved."

"Right now I think I'm one of the luckiest people alive. I'm enthusiastic about my life. It doesn't mean I don't get upset. But I'm a lot more resilient than I was."

"I snap back faster because the very core of me is very, very happy to be alive," Klugman confided.

The actor's friends and co-workers are amazed at the change in him since he gave up boozing around the beginning of this year.

"Today, Jack Klugman is looked upon as Mr. Hollywood Nice Guy — always calm, laid-back and friendly to just about everyone," said one close friend. "It used to be a totally different story."

"He was unbearable. He was nasty and crude to everyone. It didn't matter if you were a studio executive or the exercise boy for his horse. He treated you the same — rotten."

"When Jack had a few drinks under his belt, he was constantly in a rage. He was touchy and would fly off the handle at the slightest provocation. He'd bite your head off." The friend recalled one particularly bad day when he and Jack hit several bars before arriving at the TV studio. Instead of getting right to work, Klugman sat by himself, figuring out which horses he planned to bet on.

"Finally the director came over and asked Jack to please get in place for the next scene. Jack roared at the guy: 'Unless you've got a sure thing in the eighth race, you'd better leave me alone! I'll be there when I'm finished!' Then he went back to his racing sheets, leaving the whole crew standing around with nothing to do."

At the 1981 Kentucky Derby in Louisville, Jack was downing one vodka after another before the race, the friend said.

"A couple of photographers wanted to get a few more shots of a horse that Jack owned, but he flew into a rage and chased them out of the stable," the friend remembered. "He spent the next half hour hollering and yelling at the stable boys and the grooms."

Another friend said Klugman's drinking made him so mean-tempered that his pals almost dreaded to see him show up for a night on the town.

"He was a real pain," the friend said. "When he was on the sauce so heavily, he couldn't control his temper or his tongue."

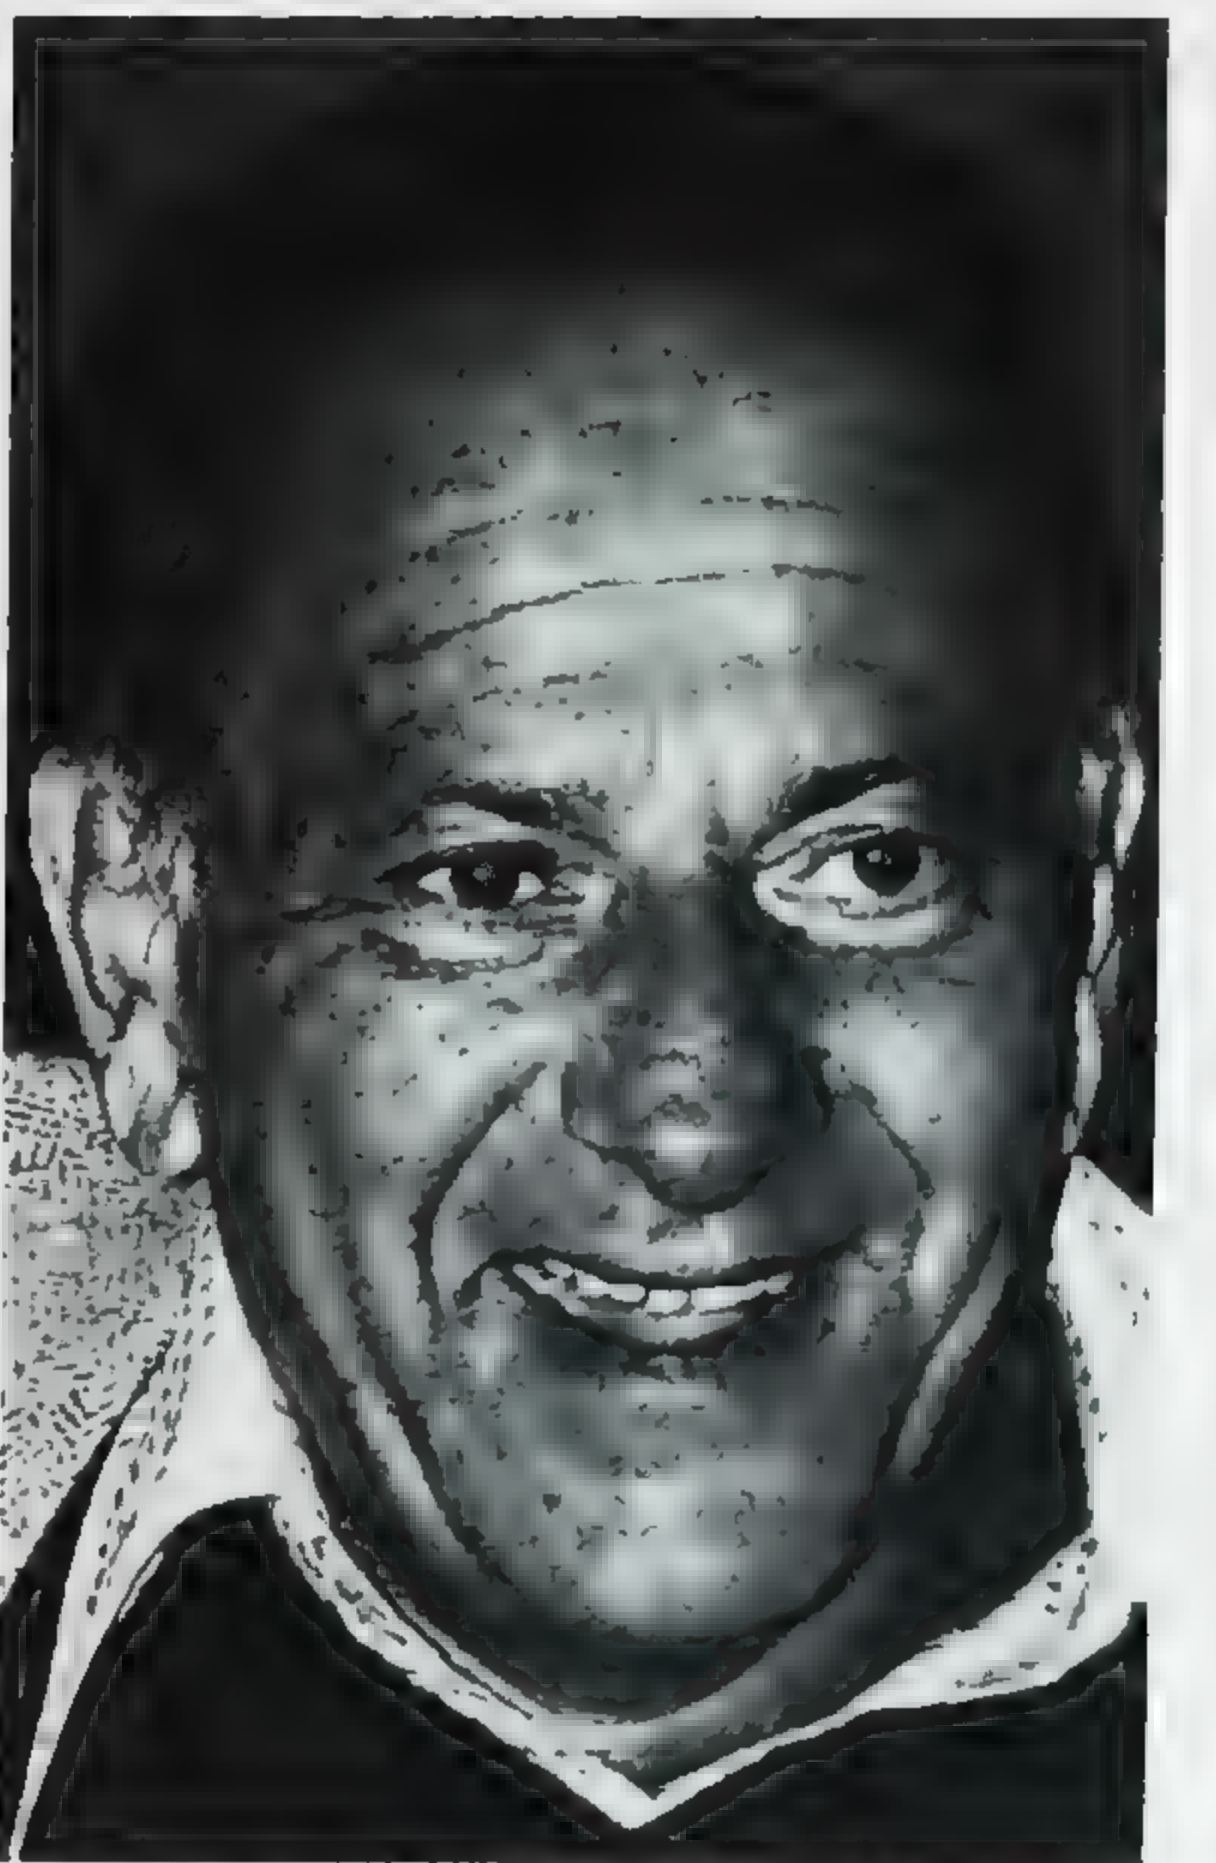

"He'd accuse everyone around him of being with him just because of his money. Other times he'd accuse us of meddling in his life. Then he'd walk away, sullen and angry."

One studio insider recalled a "very ugly scene" that occurred on the set of "Quincy" one day last fall when Klugman publicly tore into his costar Robert Ito, who plays Sam Fujiyama on the show.

"Jack was in a foul mood," the insider said. "He'd been slipping in and out of his dressing room all day, and each time he came back he was redder in the face, angrier and less in control of himself. He walked straight up to Bob and said: 'You blankety-blank! You screwed up that whole blankety scene! I'm not going to work with amateurs!" Then Jack stalked right off the set.

BEFORE: Klugman was called a "booze-sodden old actor on the slide."

"Bob was dumbfounded. He didn't know what had happened. And neither did the rest of the crew. The scene had gone like clockwork. It was all totally irrational on Jack's part."

"When he was on the sauce he was like a man possessed. His private devils took over. He became an absolute tyrant, a terrible person. He would say awful, hurting things, even to his closest friends."

"But what a change now. He's cut out the hard booze. He takes a glass of white wine now, but that's all. Now Jack arrives for work with a twinkle in his eye and a charge of enthusiasm that affects everyone on the set."

"Now he behaves like a mature 60-year-old instead of a booze-sodden old actor on the slide."

"He told me recently, 'Hey, I'm 60 and I intend to settle down and really enjoy the rest of my life. The old

Another co-worker said he can hardly believe how easy-going the "new" Jack Klugman has become. "He's a whole new man," the source said. "He's a pleasure to work with."

"He allows the director to run the show the way he wants. He lets the director select the scenes, and doesn't make the picky changes that he used to."

An actress who frequently appears on the show said Klugman used to be "concerned only with himself. He didn't care about the other actors and didn't want to help them out."

For example, she said, he would refuse to do "run-throughs" with other actors — going over their lines together before the actual filming.

"But things sure are different now," she said. "He's very helpful to me and other actors and crew members on the show. He's a lot more easygoing and content. He's eased up on everybody."

Myths and Facts About Dogs & Cats

It's a myth that a barking dog won't bite and that a wagging tail means Fido wants to be friendly. But it's a fact that a dog will quickly forgive you for mistreatment, while a cat won't.

"Cats are much less likely to forgive and forget abusive treatment," says

Dr. Ginger Hamilton, a psychologist and expert on animal behavior. "But a dog will come back to get into your good graces again."

Dr. Hamilton and Dr. Stephen Potkay of the National Institute of Health Veterinary Resources Branch, exploded several pet myths:

Who Were Best and Worst U.S. Presidents?

By CHARLES PARMITER

The greatest U.S. President ever was Franklin D. Roosevelt, and the worst was Warren Harding, says a university researcher who has developed a complex scale for rating America's Presidents.

Surprisingly, two Presidents who fare badly on the scale are John F. Kennedy and George Washington, says Dr. Dean Simonton, creator of the scale.

Dr. Simonton's "greatness index" takes into account such things as number of years in office, amount of legislation pushed through Congress, Supreme Court appointments, wars, and scandals while in office.

"F.D.R. had everything going for him," said Dr. Simonton, professor of psychology at the University of California at Davis. "He was the longest-term President ever and got tons of legislation through — the entire New Deal."

"At the bottom is Harding. He was a nice guy, but involved in scandal. Some of his Cabinet officials were getting kickbacks from oil companies."

Incredibly, Washington's position on the scale is almost identical to that of Nixon, the only President to resign.

"People have always rated Washington highly because he was the first, but not much happened during his Presidency. Nixon accomplished a lot until he blew it."

"And Kennedy simply wasn't in long enough to do much."

The other highest scorers, in order of greatness, are Teddy Roosevelt, Abraham Lincoln, Woodrow Wilson, Harry Truman and Thomas Jefferson.

And the other lowest-scoring Presidents, starting with the worst, are

Roosevelt Ranked 1st
Washington Rated low.

Ulysses S. Grant, James Garfield and Zachary Taylor (tie), and William Henry Harrison.

Relief for Millions — A New Treatment to Heal Wounds

By DAN SCHWARTZ

An amazing new treatment is healing bedsores and other infected open wounds in over 95 percent of cases — after all other types of medical aid have failed.

The three-step method has even completely cured leg ulcers in patients who've had them for over 35 years!

"Without any question this treatment will bring relief to millions of people — and could save hundreds of thousands of lives each year," declared researcher Dr. Anthony Silvetti, who developed the procedure.

Here are the three steps of the method, according to Dr. Silvetti, director of the Human Tissues Reconstruction Laboratory at Bethany Methodist Hospital in Chicago:

First, the wound or sore is washed with a special saline solution.

Second, a solution of amino acids — which helps repair tissue — is applied.

Third, the wound or sore is sprinkled with a special powder — containing starch and vitamin C — which helps connective tissue and skin grow.

"The treatment has to be done on a daily basis, sometimes twice a day," said Dr. Silvetti.

"We generally see a response to infection control within two or three days. Then within days new tissue begins to grow. Bedsores five to six inches (in diameter) generally heal in about two months."

Besides bedsores, the treatment is effective in healing severe burns, skin ulcers and other wounds prone to infection.

Bedsores can be fatal because the infection can spread into surrounding tissues and the blood.

Dr. Silvetti said he's treated about 600 patients, with a failure rate of only 3 to 4 percent — and the failures were extremely advanced cases of tissue destruction. Among those who were healed were several people who'd had open sores on their legs for 35 years or more, he noted.

When sores are on the limbs, amputation often becomes necessary. The Center for Tissue Trauma Research estimates that each year 200,000 amputations or other mutilating operations are required due to open sores.

Approval for widespread use of the method is now pending before the FDA. Among those who've already used it successfully is Dr. Miguel Teresi, clinical assistant professor of surgery at the University of Illinois and former chief of the burn unit at Chicago's Cook County Hospital.

"It's an exciting development. It could be a major breakthrough in the burn save many thousands of field," said Dr. Teresi. "And lives."

And in an unusual twist, the scrappy star, who's had a long-running feud with the press, actually wanted to become a sports reporter!

"That wasn't because he had any great ambitions to be a journalist."

"Frankie was a big sports fan and he had the idea that if he was a sportswriter, covering all the big events, he would get free tickets to all the big ball games," explained his godfather Frank Garrick, now 85 and living in Hoboken, N.J.

and decided to work for the now-defunct Jersey Observer in Hoboken as a helper on a delivery truck for $11 a week, his childhood pal Bob Anthony, of New York, recalled.

"Frank liked the job but he wanted to advance himself."

"The bosses at the newspaper saw he was a get-up-and-go guy so they made him a copyboy."

Garrick, who was then the circulation manager for the paper, remembered, "As a copyboy, Frankie was earning about $12 a week."

"He was kept pretty busy running errands for editors and reporters and running edited copy from the sports department out to the composing room."

But Sinatra's newspaper who sang on weekends at a local social club — went to Jersey City to watch a performance by his idol, Bing Crosby.

"After he saw Crosby, he just said, 'I'm definitely going to be a singer,'" recalled Anthony.

Sinatra abruptly quit his newspaper job — and a star was born.

Ironically, if Sinatra had been named what his parents originally intended, Garrick said, fans would have screamed for "Marty Sinatra."

At the christening, just as the priest was about to baptize the baby, he turned to Garrick, the godfather, and asked his name "Francis Garrick," he replied.

"Well, before we knew it the priest went and christened the child Francis Albert Sinatra," revealed Garrick.

"It would have been Martin Albert Sinatra, after his father, but his parents decided they liked the name anyway and let it stay that way."

University-Based Diet Released for only $2 until Sept. 30th....

(this is not a misprint)

Melts Away More Fat Each Day
Than 2 Hours Jogging,
Plus Going Home And Doing 600 Push-Ups!

As part of an advertising test authorized by Instant Improvement, Inc., we will send a full 14 Day Supply of "The University-Based Diet-Pill Program" to every reader who responds to this notice before Midnight, Sept. 30th for the sum of $2 plus $1 shipping and postage. There is no further monetary obligation.

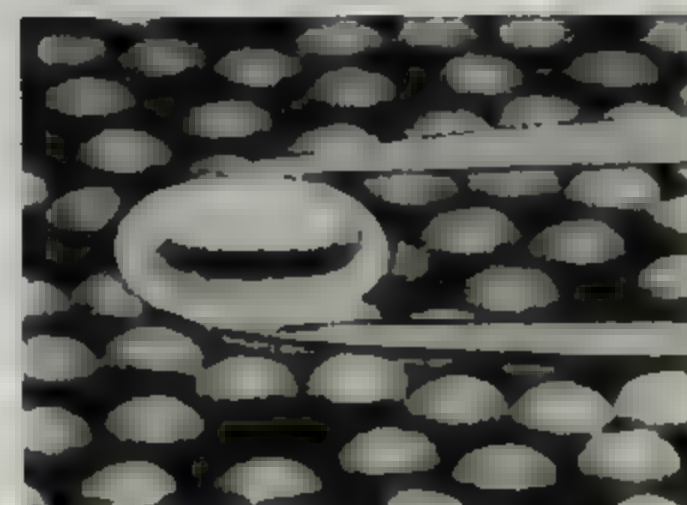

With this Diet-Pill-Program you can start to shrink every fat cell in your body in as little as hours—in the first two days alone lose as much as one pound of excess fat, flab and fluid every 8 hours, wake up as much as 3 pounds slimmer the very next morning... watch your waistline deflate down as much as one full size in just one day... and then as you continue to lose, day by day, as much as 10 lbs. in 7 days and four full sizes in just fourteen days.

This advertising test is being done simultaneously in other publications. If you see it in more than one publication, please let us know when you order.

In medically-controlled experiments with similar programs, obese patients lost 6 pounds in 48 hours, and a loss of 10 pounds in 7 days was not unusual. Depending on how overweight you are to start, total losses of 30, 40 or 50 pounds are not unlikely. This means that a size 20 dress comes down to size 12, 10 or even 8.

Why? Because this documented Diet-Pill-Program actually turns your body's fat-build-up system UPSIDE DOWN—creates such a catabolic calorie deficit that your body turns into a "Fat-Blowtorch" and melts down more fat than if you swam over 2 hours the first day, ran over an hour and a half the next day bicycled from one town to the next the third day... or did hundreds of push-ups non-stop the very next... and so on, every single day.

To do this, of course, as you know, this program has a high-speed diet that lowers caloric intake essential to the reduction of body weight. Such results cannot be obtained through the use of the pills alone, of course, since they are designed solely to turn off your hunger lust, that overwhelming desire to gorge yourself fat—and turn it off like you'd turn off the switch on a runaway car. These are not starch-blockers, and have been found by an advisory panel of medical doctors to be "safe and efficacious". See your own doctor first, of course. And if you have high blood pressure, heart disease, diabetes or thyroid malfunction, use only as he directs.

Is it worth this bother, even at this advertising-test price? The answer is simple. Imagine yourself with up to 6 inches off your hips... 3 inches off your thighs... 4 inches off your buttocks... 6 inches off your stomach... 6 inches off your waistline. Starting in just hours.

There is a limit of one order per address; but if your order is received on time, you may receive a full 28-day supply for only $4 plus $1.50 for handling and shipping. A signed endorsement by one of America's most famous physicians—the author of 31 books—will be sent with your order. But orders received that are postmarked after Sept. 30th will be returned unopened. There is also a full money-back guarantee at any time. Send your name and address (please print) with the appropriate sum to I.I. Inc., 301 Henry St., Dept. U D-11, Lindenhurst, N.Y. 11757.

Want to Waste Your Money? Ask Uncle Sam to Do the Job

By U.S. Congressman LES ASPIN (D-Wis.)

Our government is wasting untold millions of your tax dollars by using federal workers to do jobs that could be done far cheaper by private contractors.

Just to show you how much money could be saved, take a look at these switches that have already been made:

• When federal employees maintained the buildings at the Army's Vint Hill Farm Station in Virginia, the price tag was nearly $9.5 million a year. But a private contractor's doing it now for $6.2 million.

• When government workers did the laundry at the Fort Dix Army post in New Jersey, taxpayers got soaked for $5.1 million a year. When a private contractor took over the job, the expense dropped clean down to $4.1 million.

• When the government's National Weather Service maintained a weather forecasting team at Washington's National Airport, it cost a whopping $237,000 a year. When the job was turned over to private enterprise, the cost plunged to $87,000.

• Janitorial services at the U.S. Air Force Academy cost $5,264,723 a year when done by government workers. But now a private contractor cleans the buildings for $3,944,589—a sweeping savings of 25 percent for U.S. taxpayers.

As far back as the mid-1950s, Congress and the White House urged federal agencies to farm out those jobs that could be done more cheaply by private industry without causing any national security problems.

But today, nearly 30 years later, the situation still is disgraceful.

For example, Navy brass hats spend up to 51 times more for certain ship repairs than do the owners of commercial vessels that have the same repairs done.

Overhauling a main pump on a Navy ship costs taxpayers an average of $80,000—but overhauling the same pump on a commercial vessel costs a mere $600!

Overhauling a power generator on a Navy ship costs a shocking $68,000. But the same job on a commercial ship runs just $4,000.

Amtrak, our national passenger railroad, could get on the right track to saving taxpayers' money by letting private industry maintain its rails.

Private contractors can replace more than five feet of track per man-hour of work—nearly five times the output of the Amtrak railroad crews, according to a university study.

And the bureaucracy even manages to waste money on the care of children.

A federally funded day-care center costs an average of $188 a year, per child—but private centers do the job for $102.

This outrageous waste has got to stop.

The American people simply cannot afford to continue shouldering these excessive—and unnecessary—costs.

Your Gums Can Reveal if Stress Is Harming You

Your gums reveal the effect stress is having on your body.

Do you suffer from sensitive or bleeding gums that don't heal?

These are two signs that stress may be interfering with your body's natural healing process—or even causing some tissues to break down, according to Dr. John Manhold, a professor of general and oral pathology at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey.

If you notice you have sensitive or bleeding gums, you should definitely see your doctor or dentist.

Woman turns $1 into $18,000.00 in Las Vegas by using her Personal Biorhythm Analysis

By PAUL VANDERWIST

It was the best birthday Mrs. Sturm could have ever hoped for. On July 14th, Mrs. Audrey Sturm left her home in La Puente, California for Las Vegas equipped with only $150 and her personal Biorhythm Analysis. As it turned out, she didn't need the $150.

Mrs. Sturm planned her trip this week because her Biorhythm Analysis said she was having an eight day Biorhythm Hot Streak. After a few days of winning steadily at "21" ($300.00) and Bingo ($250.00) she decided to go for the big money. Buying a $1 Keno ticket with 8 spots, Mrs. Sturm quickly collected $18,000.00.

Mrs. Sturm described the experience in her own words: "My eyes could not believe the results posted on the Keno board! There is no doubt in my mind that I would have missed all of this, if I had not known when my Biorhythm Triple High Jackpot Days were!"

Mrs. Sturm is not the only person who wagered a little money to win a lot. People nationwide have been dazzled by how easy it is to quickly turn small pocket change into an immense money and career. These three Biorhythm cycles begin the day we are born and flow throughout our entire lives. They alternate between high and low cycles. When at least two Biorhythm Cycles are on high, you experience a Multi-High Jackpot Day. When at least three cycles hit on exactly the same day, you experience a Triple High Super Jackpot Day. Everyone has these special days. Unfortunately, most people do not take advantage of them.

RESEARCH BREAKTHROUGH

The Biorhythm Research Association was interested in learning if it was really true that good luck was immensely greater on multi-high jackpot days. To help the Association's research, hundreds of people across the country had their personal Biorhythm Analysis prepared and reported what happened when they used their analysis. Because of limited space, we have listed only a few of their remarkable stories.

"This was just unbelievable! On anticipating my first triple high jackpot day, I talked my husband into going to the racetrack much against his wishes. He hit a daily double, and I myself hit not one mind you, but four exacts. All in one day - this never happened before - coming home with a total of $500.00 (in one day)."

Dolores Juliana

Asbury Park, N.J.
"On October 10th while in Reno, Nevada, I experienced a multi-high jackpot day."

I marked a keno ticket. I was elated when 7 out of 8 numbers were called for a cash total of $2,391.90!"

Elizabeth Leber

Pittsburg, CA

BINGO BONANZA

"After going to the same place to play Bingo for 5 years and only winning small amounts. I found out when my Biorhythm Jackpot Days were and only went then. I finally hit one - the big one for $1200.00. Now I won't go except on Multi-High Jackpot Days. My husband laughed before, but not now."

Mrs. Shirley Jones

Homestead, Florida

WIN BIG AT THE RACES

"Not having ever won anything in my life, I decided I needed help. So I used my Biorhythm Chart. I was very skeptical of the whole thing. But you have made a believer out of me. The trifecta that I played on my jackpot day came in and paid $500.00."

Mrs. Gilbert Lea

Flushing, New York

MRS. AUDREY STURM COULD NOT STOP WINNING IN VEGAS - Thanks to her personal Biorhythm Analysis. Biorhythm is the measurement of the up and down flow of your mental, physical, and emotional life cycles. When the three cycles are high, you experience a Triple High Jackpot Day. Mrs. Sturm's Biorhythm cycles for the week of July 14th are superimposed over the scene of her $18,000.00 triumph, the Golden Nugget. This article explains how you can have your own analysis prepared and learn your Biorhythm Jackpot Days.

maro car worth over $7,000.00 on a local TV show. The contest had been going on for several weeks and I sent my cards on my jackpot days. The chances of being called must have been one in thousands as the drum was loaded. I enter contests and now watch my Biorhythm very close. Thanks for introducing me to the Biorhythm system. I am truly grateful."

Mrs. Ruth Wilson
Fillmore, California
More recently, Mrs. Wilson won a Sunfish sailboat and a 22 foot Crestline stern drive motor boat. Mrs. Wilson has to date won 17 big prizes valued at over $16,000.00, by using her personal Biorhythm Analysis.

orhythm Analysis, you simply don't need to. With Biorhythm, the odds can be greatly in your favor.
Omar Watts was a 59 year old night-watchman struggling to support a wife and five children. On October 27, his Biorhythm Analysis indicated a Triple High Jackpot Day. It was on this day that Omar chose to quit his job as a night-watchman. His purchase of a 50¢ ticket had just won him Ohio's first million dollar lottery.

The Biorhythm Research Association has just about completed all their research. But they are still interested in gathering more names of big jackpot winners. If you sent them your birth date, they will individually prepare your one year - 365 day Biorhythm Analysis. Along with your Analysis, you will receive a research blank, which will offer you cash incentives to simply tell the Association all about the unbelievable luck, love, wealth, success and happiness your Biorhythm Analysis has brought you.

HOW IS AN ANALYSIS PREPARED?

A Biorhythm Technician will process your birth information. Your key-punched card will be fed into a giant IBM 370 - 145 computer. The computer will then complete the complicated calculations to determine the positions of your Biorhythm Cycles every day for the coming year. Your Biorhythm Analysis will not be preprinted, as the computer individually prepares each analysis just like a person would. But the computer's tremendous speed enables the Association to prepare reports for the public at low costs.

WHAT CAN BIORHYTHM DO FOR YOU?

With your personal 15 page, 3,000 word Biorhythm Analysis, all of the following benefits can be yours:

• Your luck can instantly improve. Your Analysis will point out your Multi-High Jackpot Days. These lucky days are the best times for you to enter lotteries, drawings, raffles, play bingo, go to the races, play cards, or try any games of chance.

• Your Biorhythm Analysis can make you lucky at love. You'll be told when your Physical (sexual) and Emotional (romantic) high days will occur, so you can take full advantage of them. When you know ahead of time you'll be at your best, your self-confidence will improve. Members of the opposite sex will sense this and be attracted to you.

• Your Analysis will help you perform better on the job and accelerate advancements. Profitable times (intellectual highs) to make career and investment decisions will be pinpointed.

• Your Analysis will notify you when to be on the lookout for hidden talents which may be surfacing. It will then point out the best times to develop these talents.

• By knowing the best times to do things and when to relax and recharge, you'll do everything better than you have before. You can use your Biorhythm Analysis to begin an all around program of self-improvement.

• You will learn your Biorhythm

Hot Streaks. These strings of lucky days are the best times to go on vacation; business trips, gambling sprees, or do anything where uncertainty is involved. The odds for success can be greatly in your favor.

Biorhythm has been thoroughly tested. Over 5,000 companies nationwide use Biorhythm. Many American airlines use Biorhythm. Biorhythm has been covered by most major newspapers, magazines and has been featured on "To Tell The Truth" and "Monday Night Football."

HOW CAN YOU ORDER YOUR PERSONAL BIORHYTHM ANALYSIS?

If you are interested in immediately cashing in on all of the built-in luck, love, wealth, success and happiness you have coming to you, then simply do this: Send the name, current address, date, month, year and place of birth for each person on a piece of paper along with the $3.65 plus 30¢ postage and handling in cash, check or money order, for each one year Biorhythm Analysis (365 days for 1¢ a day). Make checks payable to Biorhythm Research Association. If you have Master Charge or VISA, you may charge your purchase by sending the following information: A. name of your card B. credit card number C. card expiration date.

Mail your orders to BIORHYTHM RESEARCH ASSOCIATION, Dept. LL-12, 401 Market Ave. N. Canton, Ohio 44705.

You take absolutely no risk when you order. Your Biorhythm Analysis is covered by a one year - 365 day - full money back guarantee. If your luck does not dramatically improve in all areas of your life, simply return your analysis. You will receive every penny of your purchase price back - no questions asked.

The Association's research project may not last much longer. But right this minute, you can have your personal one year Biorhythm Analysis individually prepared for just 1¢ a day! Please act now!

You Can Have a New Memory & Be Smarter And Happier

By JOSEPH POLICY

In an unbelievable breakthrough, some scientists say they'll soon be able to transplant memories from one person into another.

The amazing development - done with hypnosis and drugs - will usher in a new age of superknowledge, greater income and happiness, they say.

"Within five years we will be able to transplant memories," declared Dr. Stephen W. Brown, associate professor of psychology at California's Pepperdine University.

Say you're tired of your old job and want to become a nuclear engineer. Instead of spending years in school, you'll be able to have all the knowledge and experience of a nuclear scientist added to your mind through a memory transplant.

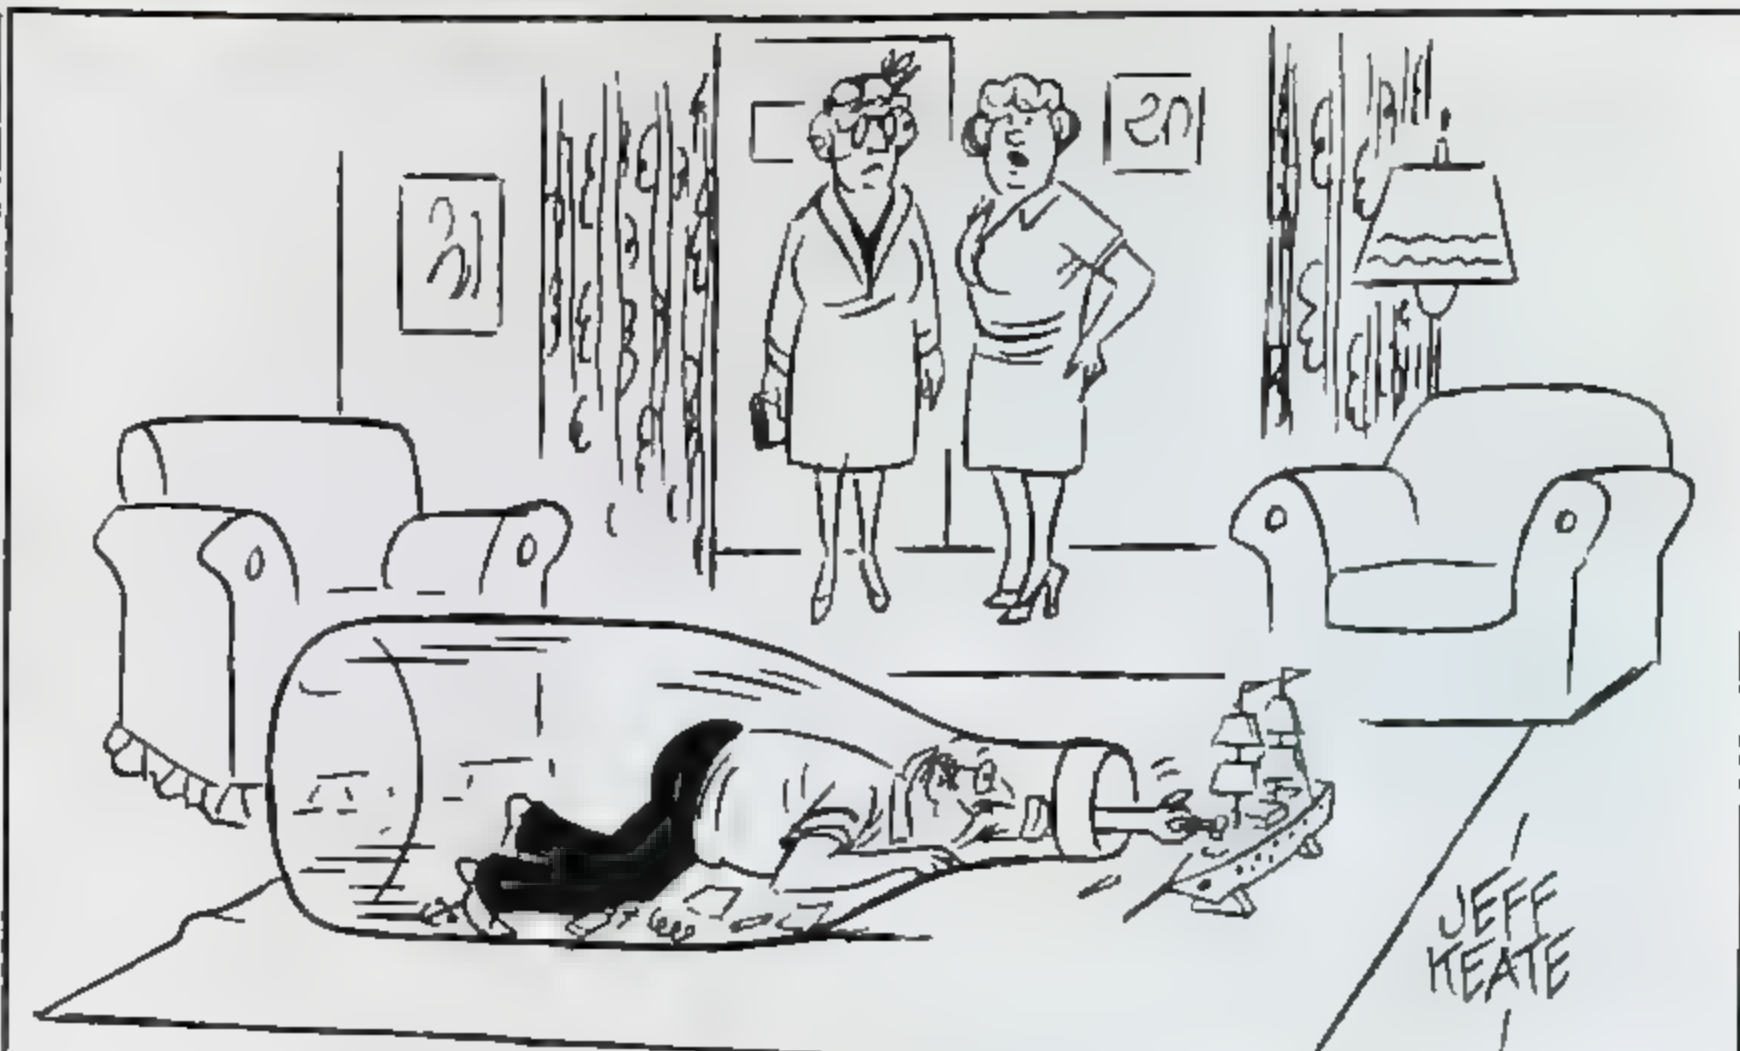

Dr. Thomas Easton, a theoretical biologist and an instructor at the University of Maine, explained how. "The nuclear scientist or engineer could be paid to put his knowledge on videotape over a period of months, and then these tapes could be played into receiving minds under hypnosis. Research has already shown that people can absorb and understand a taped message or instruction several times faster than it was originally recorded, and under hypnosis, with the aid of drugs to make a person more receptive, this process could be speeded up tenfold or even more with total retention.

"If memory transplants could be done successfully, there is absolutely no reason why the young or old could not graduate from college with honors in the short time of six months. Imagine how much time and money people could save! One could literally become an expert on Shakespeare or Einstein in a matter of days," added Dr. Brown.

"Schools as we know them today could be totally eliminated and in their place could be memory transplant centers - just like the computer programming centers of today."

Another use for this technique would be to replace negative or painful memories, such as recollections of a bad auto accident that kept a person from driving, said Dr. Brown. "Imagine how great it would be if these people could have a memory transplant which would not erase the traumatic memory but would make it seem as if it had happened in a dream or on TV."

"That man would do anything to be different."

Dr. Easton agreed. "You may be able to overlay the bad memories with good ones so that the real ones begin to seem more like a dream."

"And if a person has any bad experience in their past, we'll just overlay it with something else that actually shouts a little louder in his mind."

Memory expert Elizabeth Loftus, professor of psychology at the University of Washington, also observed, "Memory transplants could be just around the corner."

Kindness Pays

There are some people who carry their wealth with them, who are rich without money. They do not need palatial homes or a large bank account. They do not need to buy admission to society - everybody loves them. They are welcome everywhere because they have that which money cannot buy - a genial, helpful, sunny, cheerful disposition.

Crime Crackdown

More Crooks Are Landing Behind Bars — and Staying There Longer

The number of criminals behind bars in the U.S. skyrocketed 12 percent last year — thanks to a nationwide crackdown on crooks.

That's the biggest increase in a single year ever!

"The whole criminal justice system has gotten tougher," declared Peter Greenwood, analyst for the Rand Corporation, the famed California think tank.

"More and more crooks are being thrown in jail — and once there, they're spending more and more time behind bars."

"There's no doubt about it, getting tougher on crime is going to slow it down — the tide is turning."

During 1981, the nation's prison population grew by almost 40,000 — by far the largest increase in a single year since data became available in 1925, the U.S. Justice Department reports.

"This huge 12.1 percent influx surpassed the record 10.5 percent annual growth rate set in 1975. Behind this growth were measures reflecting a sterner public attitude toward crime and criminals," the Justice Department said.

During the past few years, 37 states passed laws requiring mandatory prison sentences for criminals convicted of certain serious crimes, most of a violent nature. Many states have cut back on paroles by tightening requirements for release — and four states have abolished parole altogether.

By PAUL F. LEVY

In 1981, 49 states and the District of Columbia had increases in their prison populations. Michigan was the lone exception; it had to release some prisoners because of severe prison overcrowding.

Alabama — which has sharply cut back on paroles — led the country with a 25 percent rise in its prison population.

"We are seeing a heartening turning of the tide in the war against crime," says Barbara Bolland, senior research associate at the Institute for Law and Social Justice in Washington, D.C.

An informed source in the Justice Department agreed. "We're certainly seeing more and more people go to jail — and they're staying there longer." At the same time, the source added, "there's been no increase in violent crime since 1973."

And the Justice Department says the percentage of households "touched by crime" — that is, those in which a member is a victim of theft or violence — has actually decreased. It's gone from 32 to 30 percent in the past six years.

We're Winning the War Against Arthritis

By Dr. FREDERIC C. McDUFFIE
Medical Director of the Arthritis Foundation

We expect to wipe out many types of arthritis in our lifetime.

Arthritis research is reaching a new age of excitement and hope. More researchers are tackling arthritis in the laboratory than ever before. Our knowledge about the diseases that produce arthritis is growing by leaps and bounds.

At no point since 1958, when I first began work in the field of arthritis, have I seen the rapid progress that is taking place today.

I look at arthritis as a jigsaw puzzle — and all the scattered pieces are finally getting put together. We can begin to see what the whole picture is like.

There is a good chance we'll find the cause of rheumatoid arthritis by the end of this decade. Curing or preventing this type of arthritis would end pain and suffering for millions of Americans.

The major theory about rheumatoid arthritis is that it is caused by a common virus. If this theory proves true, we may pin down that virus and develop an immunization program to eventually wipe it out.

With osteoarthritis we're closer to understanding the chemical changes in bone and cartilage which cause the aches and pains and hamper joint movement.

We have already pinpointed factors in the blood that indicate a particular susceptibility to certain forms of arthritis, such as spondylitis, a type of arthritis that affects the spine.

Susceptibility to several forms of arthritis can be determined with a blood test. And before long we should be able to figure out what triggers arthritis in those born with a susceptibility.

Arthritis is a group of over 100 different diseases, and we'll never find the single "magic bullet" cure that covers all types.

But we will see scientists slowly but surely eliminating the differ-

It's Best to Have Children 5 Years Apart

It's best to have children about five years apart, says a leading university researcher.

This frees parents from the demands and pressures connected with two children who are very close in age, according to Dr. Jaymie S. Kidwell.

It also allows the parent more time to develop a one-to-one relationship with each child, explained Dr. Kidwell, assistant professor of child and family studies at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

She reached these conclusions about ideal child spacing after making a study of more than 1,700 adolescents and their relationships with their parents, brothers and sisters.

ent forms of arthritis one by one. We expect to put many forms of arthritis in the same category as gout, which is so easily controlled and so completely treated that in our lifetime many patients almost forget they have it. We can all look forward to seeing many types of arthritis wiped out in our lifetime.

Let's Make This Perfectly Clear — It's Not Nixon

The fellow with the dark heavy eyebrows and furrowed forehead (photo left) is not former President Richard Nixon. It's Gene Barry (photo right), who played "Bat Masterson" on TV. Barry's appearing as Nixon in "Watergate: A Musical," which opened at a theater in Atlanta in early July.

There is nothing ugly; I never saw an ugly thing in my life for let the form of an object be what it may, light, shade and perspective will always make it beautiful.

World's Most Bizarre Cult

One of the most inhuman religious cults anywhere in the world demands that its followers — all men — have their sex organs removed in a barbaric ritual.

The eunuchs of India are called hijras, wear female clothes and worship a mythical goddess of fertility named Bahucharamata.

As a sacrifice to this deity, males as young as 16 voluntarily give up their manhood, reveals sociologist Dr. G.R. Salunke, an authority on the hijras.

And even though this monstrous form of mutilation is officially outlawed, the bizarre cult has many followers. An estimated 100,000 neutered men live in hijra communes throughout India, says Dr. Salunke, president of India's A.M. Science College of Nasik.

"Ritual emasculation is part of their initiation ceremony — it's essential in order to become a member of the community," he said.

Because it is illegal, the mutilation ceremony is conducted in secret behind the closed doors of a hijra household.

For 11 days before the horrible rite is performed, the male candidate is asked repeatedly whether he is sure he wants to become a hijra. Only men who can prove they are impotent are considered for membership.

But despite the impotency requirement, Dr. Salunke says, "My case studies show that three out of 10 of those who submit to this inhuman mutilation rite are normal men."

The mutilation rite usually begins at dawn on the 11th day. The candidate is bathed in scented oil and water. He is covered with garlands and sits in a chair while the other hijras in the commune begin to dance and

By ARLENE BRECHER

Are you a good judge of people?

Put your "people-judging" abilities to the test with this easy quiz prepared especially for ENQUIRER readers by Dr. Jackie Boles, associate professor of sociology, Georgia State University, Atlanta.

Simply answer each question, then check the scoring and analysis which follow.

1. Have you ever surprised yourself by becoming a close friend of someone you initially disliked? (A) Never, (B) Once or twice, or (C) Frequently.

2. The best way to detect whether someone is lying is to pay close attention to his or her: (A) Eyes, (B) Voice, or (C) Body language.

Test Yourself How Good Are You at Sizing Up People?

3. Do you consider yourself (A) An optimist, (B) A pessimist, or (C) A realist?

4. After confiding a secret to a close friend, you discover it has leaked out. Are you (A) Hurt, (B) Angry, or (C) Confused?

5. Are most of your current friends (A) Close to you in age, education and economic status, (B)

A varied lot, or (C) People who share many of your work and home interests?

6. When you first meet someone, what impresses you most? (A) Appearance, (B) Handshake, or (C) Greeting style.

7. Which of the following most closely symbolizes your image of yourself? (A) A plunging waterfall, (B) A waterworn pebble, or (C) A boat lost in mist.

8. What's the one thing you can usually tell about someone just by looking at them? (A) Whether they are honest, (B) Whether they're attractive, or (C) Whether they have a sense of humor.

9. If you saw someone you didn't know very well doodling, would you assume the person is (A) Nervous, (B) Energetic, or (C) Creative?

Scoring

For each answer you selected, score yourself as follows:

Question 1: (A) 3 points; (B) 2 points; (C) 1 point.

Question 2: (A) 2 points; (B) 3 points; (C) 1 point.

Question 3: (A) 2 points; (B) 1 point; (C) 3 points.

Question 4: (A) 3 points; (B) 2 points; (C) 1 point.

Question 5: (A) 1 point; (B) 3 points; (C) 2 points.

Question 6: (A) 1 point; (B) 3 points; (C) 2 points.

Question 7: (A) 2 points; (B) 3 points; (C) 1 point.

Question 8: (A) 1 point; (B) 3 points; (C) 2 points.

Question 9: (A) 1 point; (B) 3 points; (C) 2 points.

Analysis

9 to 14 points. You're not really a very good judge of people, according to Dr. Boles.

"Improve your ability to judge others by getting rid of your prejudices and stereotyped views of what people are like.

"Adopt an inquisitive attitude toward others. Strive to be open-minded and your capacity to judge them will improve almost immediately," she said.

15 to 21 points. You're a pretty good judge of character, said Dr. Boles.

"To do even better, look more closely at others. Watch for subtle signs that indicate basic personality characteristics. Also be alert for significant changes in a person's behavior, statements and attitudes," she suggested.

22 to 27 points. You're an excellent judge of others, she said.

"You're gifted with a real insight into human nature and can easily sense what makes others 'tick.' To be so adept, you must understand your own personality quite well because that's the key for being an excellent judge of others," she said.

How to Stop Caving In To Secret Little Vices

Little addictions — like being hooked on soap operas or craving that Coca-Cola or pasta "fix" — can be beaten by following a few simple tips, says an expert.

First, you must change the way you talk to yourself, says psychologist Dr. Lawrence Sank. Don't say, "I've got to have that cup of coffee... I need that ice cream." Instead, say, "I'd like to have it — but I don't need it."

Find a substitute for your addiction. Instead of going to the ball park to see your favorite team, if that's your addiction, go out and play ball with your kids, or take the whole family on a hike.

Taper off. Don't go cold turkey. If you're drinking 10 Cokes a day, say to yourself, "Look, that's too much. I'll start cutting down by having only nine today."

Examine your addiction. Look at what's bad about it. If you eat too much and your waistline suffers, then, obviously, that's bad. If you're addicted to spending too much time in front of the mirror or watching TV, ask yourself, "Am I wasting time? Can I find something better to do?" It's important for everyone to take stock, said Dr. Sank, a clinical psychologist at George Washington University Medical Center.

Today's Reality

Overall, Meredith Wilson's "The Music Man" is an energetic musical comedy with a lot of memorable songs but not much substance. Except for one line. In one of the rare serious scenes, flimflam man Professor Harold Hill offers his genuine love to Marian the librarian, but she isn't certain it's the real thing. She's always looking to the future and never quite living for today. Hill says to her, "You pile up a lot of tomorrows and you'll find you've collected a lot of empty yesterdays." Like Marian, far too many people miss the present reality by looking wistfully to the future. The end product can only be a pile of empty yesterdays.

I DON'T SEE THE POINT says Jagger, whose marriage ended in reported $2 million divorce settlement.

Rock Star Mick Jagger: I'll Never Marry Again

"Marriage is claptrap," declares Mick Jagger of the Rolling Stones. "I am against it."

"As far as I'm concerned, marriage is just legalistic, contractual claptrap. I don't see the point."

Looking back on his shattered marriage to Bianca Jagger, which ended with a reported $2 million divorce settlement, the 39-year-old rock star said, "After all that I have been through, who can blame me for feeling the way I do? And if anything, marriage harms children when there is a divorce. And more than half of the marriages today end that way."

"It's the children who suffer. It's almost always the man who has to pay the money — and also the man who rarely gets custody of the children."

Jagger admitted he had a much more idealistic view of marriage when he married Bianca. "I was in love," he said. "I wanted children and I also thought it would be wonderful."

"But I will never marry again!" Mick says he's now blissfully happy with his longtime girlfriend, leggy Texas model Jerry Hall.

And in addition to that, he also said both she and his 10-year-old daughter Jade really get along well together.

"Though Jerry, Jade, myself and various relatives have no legal contract," he added, "we are just one big happy family."

Newspapers across the nation recently hailed the development of an insulin pump that can be implanted in diabetics — but it was old, old news to ENQUIRER readers.

The insulin pump, about the size of a hockey puck, has been implanted under the skin of diabetes patients, eliminating the need for daily insulin injections to control blood sugar levels.

But almost 11 months before all the wire services flashed the "news" about the devices to newspapers and TV stations across the U.S., The ENQUIRER was on top of the story.

In our issue, published Sept. 8, 1981, we told all about the new pumps in an article under the headline:

Scientists battling diabetes have made a major breakthrough — development of an artificial pancreas that can be implanted in diabetic patients to control blood sugar levels.

Some of these implants have already been made and are working successfully, experts say.

And they will spell an end to the daily insulin injections diabetics must take.

ENQUIRER HEADLINE spread the news about the amazing new insulin pump for diabetics.

"We're Winning the War on Diabetes." In that article we disclosed that the insulin pumps had already been implanted in five patients and were working successfully.

Eleven months later, the rest of the news media finally caught up with The ENQUIRER, reporting on the same experiments conducted at the University of Minnesota. Once again, The ENQUIRER was the first to inform our readers all about the most up-to-date medical news!

Zinc deficiency increases the risk of heart disease — but the estimated four million Americans who don't get enough zinc in their diet can fight back by eating zinc-rich foods.

When a person doesn't get enough zinc, the level of triglycerides — blood fats associated with heart disease — increases significantly, says Dr. Robert Henkin of Georgetown University.

And the delicate balance between "good" and "bad" cholesterol in the blood, another critical heart disease factor, is thrown off when there's not enough zinc, said biochemical expert Dr. Sung I. Koo, Ph.D.

You may have a zinc deficiency if you have these symptoms: weakness, lack of appetite or an impaired sense of taste or smell.

"If you notice any of these symptoms, consult a physician," said University of California professor Dr. Gerhard Schrauzer, Ph.D. "Zinc deficiency represents a risk factor for heart disease."

Dr. Schrauzer said you can head off zinc deficiency by eating right. "A well-balanced diet that includes animal protein, roast beef, chicken, fish, wheat germ, whole wheat bread and occasionally nuts and seafoods such as oysters can provide the recommended daily allowance of 15 milligrams of zinc," he said. "Or, take a 15 milligram zinc supplement tablet daily. You should not exceed 50 milligrams of zinc per day without the approval of your physician."

Added Dr. Henkin, "Surprisingly, there are about four million zinc-deficient adults in the U.S. alone!"

Dr. Henkin, interviewed for the above article, is director of the Center for Molecular Nutrition and Sensory Disorders at Georgetown University Medical Center; Dr. Schrauzer is professor of chemistry at the University of California at San Diego, and Dr. Sung I. Koo is assistant professor of biochemistry at Oral Roberts University.

How to get rich

How can you get rich some day? Make a hit record ... a killing on the stock market ... or invent a gadget like the hula hoop?

For most of us, these are just dreams. But have you ever stopped to think that there is a way to get rich—possibly only one sure way? Most fortunes, as you know, are made by people who own their own business.

Perhaps you've thought of starting a small business of your own ... a franchised drive-in, or maybe a service business. Trouble is, you need $10,000 to $15,000 to get started and even then it's a gamble—with slim chance of ever making really big money.

But there is one business which could make you rich—almost overnight! And the beauty of it is, you can start on a shoestring during your spare time, even while holding your regular job.

Cash by Mail

The business is Mail Order—and it's fabulous! Come up with a 'hot' new item ... and WHAM!

It strikes like a bolt of lightning! Suddenly, you are deluged with cash orders from all over the country ... MORE MONEY than you could ever make in a lifetime!

Like the Vermont dealer who ran one ad in Sports Afield Magazine. His ad pulled 22,000 orders—over A HALF MILLION DOLLARS IN CASH!

There is no other business where you can make a fortune so quickly!

• A beginner from Newark, N.J. ran his first small ad in House Beautiful—offering an auto clothes rack. Business Week reported that his ad brought in $5,000 in orders. By the end of his first year in Mail Order, he had grossed over $100,000!

• Another beginner—a lawyer from the midwest, sold an idea by mail to fishermen. Specialty Salesman Magazine reveals, "he made $70,000 the first three months!"

Proof

It's a fascinating business! Running ads in newspapers and magazines ... mailing gift catalogs ... getting cash orders in your daily mail—steady as clockwork.

There is no other business where you can start on a shoestring and pyramid your profits—without investing in merchandise! One husband and wife mail order team took in $40,000 selling one item. They obtained FREE ads in national magazines ... didn't invest a cent in merchandise, and even got the supplier to ship all orders for them!

These exceptional cases represent just a few of the hundreds of beginners who have made a "killing" in mail order. This is absolute proof of what can be done and what is being done — by beginners just like yourself!

Want further proof? Pick up any magazine. Notice how the same mail order ads are repeated ... month after month? That's concrete proof! You know those ads wouldn't be repeated over and over again—unless they were bringing in big cash profits to their owners.

The Secret

The secret of getting rich in Mail Order lies in financial leverage. It's a little-known, almost secret method—using other people's capital to make money for you!

You can get thousands of dollars worth of advertising in big national magazines—without investing your own money! And you don't have to write a single ad. Tested and proven ads are prepared for you by experts. Reinvest the profits from your first successful ad—to get more, larger ads, and the profits begin to snowball! It's like building a chain of stores ... each new store puts more money in your pocket.

You mail out beautiful catalogs which offer hundreds of dollars worth of fine, quality gifts—yet you don't

Yes, Mail Order is the fastest-growing, most profitable business in America! And now, with the gas shortage ... rising fuel costs ... and more working women ... we are on the verge of the BIGGEST BOOM in Mail Order history!

Now, with the help and backing of Mail Order Associates, Inc., of Montvale, N.J., you can follow the same proven steps to Mail Order success—using the 'secret' of financial leverage!

Start Now

We supply you with beautiful gift catalogs throughout the year. All products are drop-shipped for you, with up to 100% mark-up! You get free samples of top-selling mail order items, plus monthly trade reports on 'hot' new products ... tested, successful ads are sent to you monthly. You get advertising directories, postal laws, complete courses, expert guidance—EVERYTHING you need to practically guarantee YOUR SUCCESS. Why? Because our business depends upon your success. It's mutually profitable!

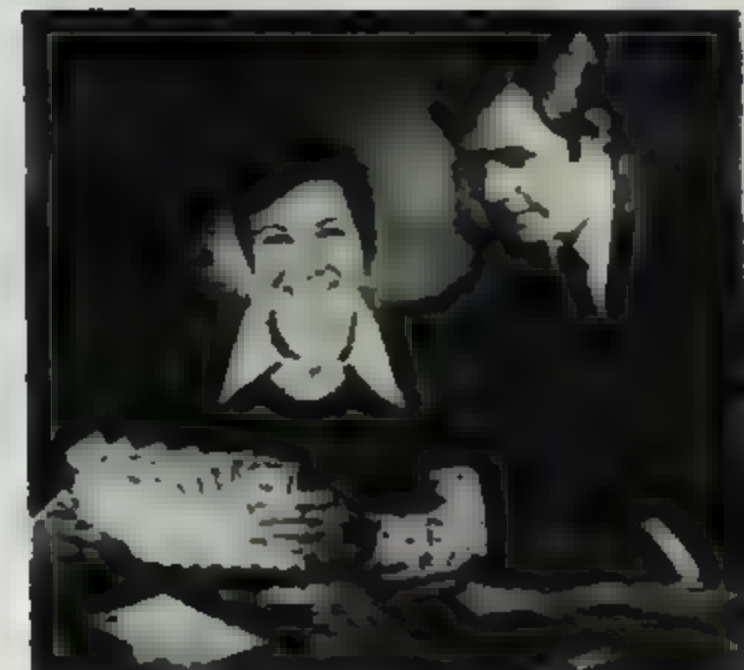

A recent feature article in Income Opportunities Magazine stated, "Mail Order Associates Inc., offers the most comprehensive Mail Order program ever offered to beginners." They go on to say, "This could be the opportunity you've been looking for. A chance to get in on the ground floor in a little-known business which we believe is on the verge of a new boom."

Free

We are now accepting charter members in our new Mail Order Program. No previous experience is required, but you must be over 21.

If you are sincerely interested in starting a profitable business of your own ... if you can see the tremendous advantages which Mail Order offers ... then ACT NOW!

The Tragic Downfall of a Hard-Luck Star

Once she was one of Hollywood's brightest musical stars — but a devastating string of tragedies landed Susanna Foster at rock bottom.

Now the one-time singing sensation is living in a dingy one-room Hollywood apartment with a kindhearted fan who took her in after finding her sleeping in a car.

"It's a tale of tragedy," said Hollywood agent Mike Mamakos. "She was as big as Jane Powell and Jeanette MacDonald. She was the top glamor girl of 1944, and starred in such movies as 'The Phantom of the Opera,'

'The Great Victor Herbert' and 'Frisco Sal.'"

And in an exclusive ENQUIRER interview, Susanna, still lovely at 57, revealed the heartbreaking tale of her long nose-dive.

"I quit films in 1945," she said. "I gave it all up to have babies, and married concert singer Wilbur Evans. We had two sons.

"Love, homelife and children were more important to me than the glamorous life of a Hollywood star.

"But it all started to crumble in 1956, when we divorced. Wilbur hardly sent me and the children any money. Life was a struggle. I took jobs in New York as a receptionist, clerk, switchboard operator, you name it.

"Sometimes I slaved 80 hours a week to earn $180. We lived in poor Manhattan apartments with the largest cockroaches and rats you ever saw. But then came the worst time of my life.

"Both my boys started on marijuana, and I didn't realize until it was too late that they were hooked on heroin.

"They were both stealing things from the house to buy their drugs. One of them attacked me, breaking my shoulder.

"I finally decided to end it all. I gulped down every pill I could find. I lay down on my bed to die. I didn't want to go on.

"But one of my sons came home and found me in a coma. I spent nine days in the hospital — and thank God, the incident made the boys quit drugs."

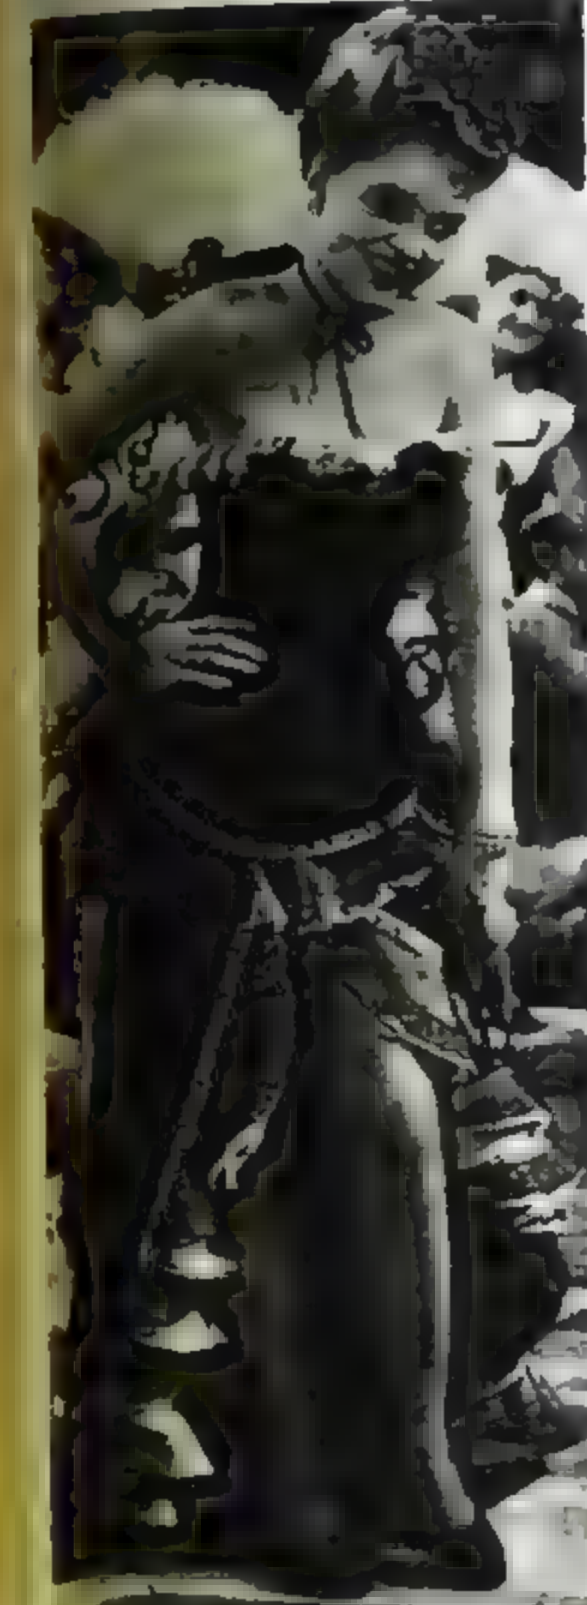

In 1974 Susanna took the bus to California and moved in with her sister, but after several fights "she threw me out," the ex-star says.

"Whatever money I made, I sent to my sons in New York. One of my sons finally came out to Los Angeles. One night in a drunken fit he threw a bottle at my face, causing a deep cut beneath my eye.

"My other son split up with his wife and we moved in together in Hollywood. I looked after their 3-year-old for a year, but last December they got back together, and I was no longer wanted there.

"I found a job typing, but I tripped and broke my wrist. It never healed properly, so now I can't get a job typing anymore.

"One lady gave me her car.

SUSANNA FOSTER as fans knew her — in the musical "Frisco Sal."

$25 for Parents' Wacky Excuse

Teachers — we'll pay $25 when we publish a wild or wacky excuse sent to you by a pupil's parents. Send your entry to EXCUSES, NATIONAL ENQUIRER, Lancaster, Pa. 17604.

Lecturing my first graders on the importance of a good breakfast, I listed on the blackboard the various foods one could eat. About 10 o'clock the following morning one boy arrived with his mother. "I'm sorry Charles is late," she explained, "but he insisted he had to have a good breakfast. After having juice, bacon and eggs, cereal, pancakes and milk, Charles threw up."

— Submitted by teacher A.L. Lancaster, Calif.

THIS WAS HOME: Susanna and her rescuer next to the car she lived in.

But someone borrowed it and got $145 in parking tickets without paying for them. One day last April the police came and took me to jail. The Actors' Fund bailed me out.

"I ended up living in the car, and in May I met Sam." It was Sam Lieberman, 34, an out-of-work film extra, who spotted Susanna sleeping in her car in a seedy area of Hollywood.

"I was devastated," he said. "I've always been her No. 1 fan. Her friends and family have all turned their backs on her. I couldn't leave her out on the street."

But Susanna insists, "People have been very kind to me."

Lose 4-8 Lbs. in 1 HOUR and PAY NOTHING NOW!

With the Space Suit Slenderizing System—as documented by U.S. government expert

A leading physician, who serves as an expert for the U.S. government, recently demonstrated how the Space Suit Slenderizing System can help you lose weight, keep most of it off and lose more—as much as you want. In fact he said, some people can temporarily lose even more than 4-8 lbs. in one hour.

The Space Suit Slenderizing System is a new way to temporarily or permanently lose weight and keep it off. It's up to you. Even though diet and exercise play a key role in any medically sound reducing program, it is the addition of the Space Suit Slenderizer that helps you to lose as much as 4-8 lbs. in the first hour and subsequently change bad eating patterns, while the System lets you take off as much weight as you want and keep it off!

Slim and trim your whole body!
Just take that first step into the Space Suit Slenderizer! It's a glittering 2-piece suit made of thermally super-active material that you can use like a Turkish bath or costly Finnish sauna. Just start the easy exercise program and the heat builds up. You burn up pockets of excess fat and flab while eliminating pounds of fluid—as much as 4-8 lbs. of fat and fluid in the first hour as you get properly conditioned! Believe it or not, when you follow directions, you will not only keep most of that weight off, you will lose even more weight!—As much as you want for as long as you like!

Take it anywhere!
You can carry Space Suit in your handbag, briefcase, lunch box or jacket pocket. It's so comfortable you can put it on while gardening, shopping, jogging, doing housework or even watching TV. And it's washable, too. Use it to exercise, to stay conscientious, and to reinforce your slenderizing activities. The Space Suit Slenderizing System gives you better results than any diet, exercise program or reducing aid alone. You can use it to lose weight fast whenever you like, and keep it off as long as you like.

Let us take the risk!
Just fill out the coupon below and postdate your check for 30 days from today! You'll pay nothing now (not for 30 days), but we will send you Space Suit Slenderizing System NOW! Try it. Use it. Watch pounds and inches disappear! If for any reason you are not delighted, send it back. We will return your check or money order, UNCASHED! Even if you send it back later, we will still refund your purchase price. Over 236,000 satisfied customers make us bold enough to make this super guarantee!

Note: As with any weight loss product, follow directions and consult physician. I have any existing ailment.

Nap Time at the UN

Wars rage, governments fall and thousands starve, but getting a good snooze can be top priority for diplomats at the United Nations, as these hysterical photos show. The entire Japanese delegation catches a quick 40 winks (top right), while U.S. Ambassador Charles Lichenstein nods off (right). Also sleeping on the job are Ambassador Chen Chu of the People's Republic of China (top left) and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko (far right). The catnapping bigwigs were caught snoozing peacefully at different times over the past few years. Maybe the UN should stand for "Undisturbed Napping."

Mom's Desperate Plea to Enquirer Readers:

Please Send a Ray of Sunshine Into My Little Kelly's Life

For little Kelly Ward, a beautiful, brown-haired 7-year-old with ocean-blue eyes, breathing has always been a minute-by-minute, life-and-death struggle.

And the cold antiseptic confines of hospitals have always been her home.

Courageously, she's fought for her life since the day she was born — and she's touched the hearts of everyone who knows her.

Now her devoted mom and the doctors and nurses who love remarkable Kelly are hoping people from the outside world — a world she doesn't know — will reach out and touch her.

"Please, oh please, send a ray of sunshine into my little Kelly's life by writing her a few words," said the youngster's dedicated mother Cheryl Ward. Born two months premature,

SUFFERING: Kelly is held by her mother as they leave the hospital with Kelly's life-support machines.

Kelly suffers from a chronic lung condition which is often fatal. "Kelly has spent all but five weeks of her life in hospitals," says Dr. Laurance Nicky, attending pediatrician at Providence Memorial Hospital in El Paso.

On the extremely rare occasions that Kelly's been allowed to visit home, heavy oxygen tanks and other breathing equipment from the hospital must accompany her.

Dr. Nicky explained that her condition, called hyaline membrane, requires that she never be far away from life-support machines. When she sleeps at night, she needs a machine to breathe.

"Cards and letters would be a great morale booster for her."

Her mother pleaded: "With just a few simple words on a card or letter, ENQUIRER readers could bring the outside world into my little girl's life."

She loves to read colorful cards and nursery rhymes.

"She loves to look at pictures of horses, the ocean, kids playing, animals in the zoo and in the wild."

Cindy Williams Walks Out on 'Laverne & Shirley' 'It's Not Worth Risking My Baby's Life'

"Nothing is more important to me than having my baby," Cindy Williams told a friend — and she proved it by walking out on "Laverne & Shirley" rather than threaten her baby's health.

Cindy — two months pregnant when she married singer Bill Hudson in May — refused to return after being forced to work an incredible 19-hour day filming the season's first episode.

The star's walkout threw the show into chaos. And Cindy told producers she won't be back until she feels better — or until after the baby's birth sometime in November.

"Cindy is desperately afraid for the life of her baby, and she's willing to give up her job to make sure the baby is healthy," said the friend of the actress.

"After the show's producers worked her from 7 a.m. until 2 a.m., she went home exhausted almost to the point of fainting."

"Cindy told me, 'I don't want to have a difficult pregnancy. I'm 35 years old, and I'm not going to work long hours like that.'"

"It's not worth risking my baby's life. I'm going to make sure this is the healthiest baby ever — and I'll leave 'Laverne & Shirley' if I have to."

"Cindy is scared to death of having a difficult pregnancy. She's already been in a lot of pain. The older you get, the harder it is. And even though Cindy's rich, it would devastate her if she lost the show. But she'll be damned if she's going to lose this baby."

"She has waited too long for the dream of having a family."

Said a "Laverne & Shirley" insider: "All hell broke loose when she didn't show up. However, the producers are steadfast — if Cindy doesn't show up, she isn't going to get paid."

Said an executive on the show: "For some reason, possibly her age, Cindy's been very sick in her pregnancy. She's had a lot of vomiting and dizziness, and felt very, very weak."

"Half the time she was huffing and puffing, saying she was dizzy and needed to

PREGNANT Cindy risked job for baby lie down in her dressing room. Sometimes she'd be there as long as an hour. We were getting absolutely no work done.

"The second day on the set, the strain was too much for her. She just broke down into tears on the set in front of about 50 people and sobbed her heart out."

She said, "It's all just too much for me — I can't handle it."

Another source said Cindy might even be written out of the show. "But everyone's worried about whether the show's popularity would continue without the chemistry between 'Laverne' and 'Shirley'."

After 10 days away from the show, Cindy worked out a temporary truce with the producers.

Several scripts are being rewritten so that "Shirley" will be out of town and call "Laverne" at home during each episode.

"So at least for several weeks, the crisis has been solved," said the insider. "After that, no one knows what will happen."

The insider added that Cindy showed up to dub her voice under the new arrangement on July 28 — but she didn't visit the show's set or meet any of the cast.

THE WACKY WAY I MET MY MATE

My Right Hook Made A Big Hit With Him

$150 will be paid for each "Wacky Way I Met My Mate" that we publish. Send entry to: Wacky Meeting, NATIONAL ENQUIRER, Lantana, Fla. 33464.

By SANDEE HERMAN

I met my husband Gary when I decked his pal Mitch with a right hook!

Mitch deserved the punch I gave him. He'd been telephoning me for months, making obscene calls because I wouldn't go out with him.

I was only 17 and still living at home with my parents when Mitch started calling me three or four times a night, night after night.

The telephone calls began as a flirtation, but eventually became obscene. And I'd never even met Mitch! I did not know how he got my number. He kept telling me he wanted to take me out, and when I turned him down he would get very nasty. Mitch's constant pestering was a real headache. He really got on my nerves.

Then one night I met some friends outside a dance and one pointed to a guy walking with another boy. "That's Mitch," she said.

What happened next was very natural and spontaneous. "Mitch!" I called, waving him over.

HUSBAND Gary Herman introduced himself to Sandee after she decked his pal with one punch.

He was a boxing fan he thought my right hook was pretty impressive!

Not only that, he said that as a boxing fan he thought my right hook was pretty impressive! We hit it off, began dating and two years later in 1968 we were married. Today we are living happily ever after in Las Vegas!

➤ You can head off much of your own job stress simply by learning how to handle your boss more effectively, top psychologists say.

Almost every boss fits one of seven basic types, which are listed below. Decide which type yours is, then follow the experts' tips for handling him.

1. The "Sherman Tank" is a bully who comes on strong and runs right over you.

Don't fight him. Be firm and stand your ground. Invite him to sit down with you and discuss your problems. Don't be afraid of him. If he interrupts, say: "I understand your concern, but let me finish."

2. The "Complainer" feels hopeless about doing anything at all to better his work world and vents his hostility on others.

Listen to the complainer and acknowledge his gripes without offering any sympathy. You can help put an end to his complaints by asking what specifically is bothering him then offering possible solutions.

3. The "Clam" is the silent, unresponsive type who withdraws and gives no feedback to guide you.

Pry at the "clam." Ask questions about what he expects from you.

— Nebraska Smoke-Eater

Tell him frankly, "I'm not getting much feedback from you."

4. The "Wet Blanket" likes to shoot down suggestions.

Give the "wet blanket" several solutions for a work problem. Having several choices will weaken his opposition.

5. The "Super-Agreeable" boss always has something good to say. He wants to be liked, so he won't criticize your work.

Ask this type to spell out exactly what he wants from you. It will help you do a better job. Listen for humorous remarks — that's his way of voicing concern.

6. The "Indecisive" boss procrastinates and constantly puts things off. He won't make a move because he's afraid he'll upset someone.

Give this boss a lot of support. Help him set up a schedule. Instead of waiting for him to act, do as much work as you can on your own.

7. The "Know-It-All" is an expert. Don't try to out-expert him. Spend a lot of time preparing before you talk to him. Then present facts, don't make sweeping statements. Take the subordinate role and he will eventually trust you.

Incredible Things Many Psychics Have in Common

Psychic people share an incredible number of common characteristics, according to a worldwide study.

For example, most experienced a personal crisis, such as illness, accident or a family breakup, between the ages of 11 and 14, according to paranormal researcher Brad Steiger, who conducted the study of more than 300 amateur and professional psychics.

And 79 percent reported they were extremely sensitive to sound, color and light. Loud noises, especially disco music or heavy traffic sounds, really bothered them, he noted.

The amazing study also revealed that 93 percent believe in God or a higher intelligence and 98 percent believe the soul lives on after death.

Also, 87 percent reported having had at least one out-of-body experience, while 72 percent said they had such experiences frequently.

Eighty percent said they were outgoing, which is the opposite of the "popular image of psychics as secretive, introverted and unhappy," Steiger noted. All of them reported having vivid dreams in color, which often predicted the future.

Walter Uphoff, professor emeritus of economics at the University of Colorado-Boulder and head of a Wisconsin psychic research foundation, said: "I agree with Brad Steiger's findings."

MURDER BY PRESCRIPTION

The specter of murder and intrigue has reared its ugly head in high society from time to time. Here, in another exclusive ENQUIRER installment from his new book, "Murder Among the Mighty," author Jay Robert Nash recounts the shocking case of Dr. Bennett Clarke Hyde, who coldly killed innocent people because he was consumed by greed.

By JAY ROBERT NASH

No medical murderer in this century has approached his lethal goals with such zeal as did the dedicated Dr. Bennett Clarke Hyde.

To inherit the vast Swope family fortune through his wife Frances, Hyde decided in 1909 that he would kill off all of those who stood before his wife in line of inheritance.

By age 40, Hyde already had a thriving medical practice and had married the niece of Thomas Swope, one of the founders of Kansas City.

Swope had decreed that upon his death his large estate would be divided by several nephews and nieces. The will also stated that should those in line for the inheritance die, their portion of the estate would be divided by the survivors.

Frances Hyde's share of the Swope fortune would exceed several hundred thousand dollars — but the greedy Dr. Hyde was not content with such "paltry amounts" when millions were to be had.

As medical adviser to the Swope family, Dr. Hyde realized

Thomas Swope was then 82 years old and in poor health. Yet, to make sure that he was in control, Hyde decided that he would replace Swope's friend James Hunton as administrator of the will.

Hunton died in 1909 and Hyde diagnosed the problem as apoplexy.

Swope, devastated by the passing of his friend, came under the care of Dr. Hyde.

One day, Hyde appeared in Swope's room with a box of pink pills, giving one to the old man. Within 20 minutes Swope went into violent convulsions. His flesh became blue and cold to the touch. He cried out to the nurse: "I wish I had not taken that pill!" Then he died.

Mere weeks after Swope's death, four of the five nephews and nieces involved in the inheritance were taken violently ill. The family physician, Hyde, diagnosed typhoid.

Christman Swope, one of the nephews, died toward the end of November 1909.

The family nurse, suspicious of Hyde all along, went to Mrs. Hyde to resign, telling her: "People are being murdered in this house."

Mrs. Hyde told the family lawyer of the nurse's strange statement. The lawyer insisted that another doctor be brought in.

The lawyer and the newly appointed physician suspected Hyde of infecting the family with typhoid after they brought in a bacteriologist who stated that no trace of typhoid germs were present in the family's water supply.

The suspicious family members went to authorities who, in turn, ordered that the bodies of Hunton and Thomas Swope be exhumed. Large amounts of strychnine were found in both bodies.

On Feb. 9, 1910, Dr. Bennett Clarke Hyde was charged by a coroner's jury with the murders of Hunton and Swope. Fascination with the murder plot gripped the nation.

The case against Hyde was powerful and convincing. A druggist came forward to testify that Hyde had purchased cyanide.

Dr. Hyde had thought himself a master murderer, the prosecution pointed out, in that he dosed both Hunton and Swope with two poisons which would counteract each other to conceal symptoms — strychnine producing convulsions and cyanide slowing down the heart.

Dr. L. Stewart, a surprise witness, stated that Hyde had come to him in late October 1909, telling him that he intended to study bacteriology and that he required typhoid germs for that purpose. Stewart supplied Dr. Hyde with the cultures.

Dr. Hyde was found guilty of first degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. As he was leaving the courtroom on the way to prison, Dr. Hyde turned to newsmen and said smugly: "This case is not closed. My dear wife Frances will not forsake me. She knows that this is a plot by certain members of the Swope family to get rid of me."

Mrs. Frances Hyde hired the most expensive lawyers her fortune could command and in 1911 the lawyers won a new trial.

Their client went to court two more times, both ending in mistrials. According to existing statutes, that meant he could not be tried again and was set free.

Hyde returned to his wife and lived comfortably on her riches.

It's not known if Frances Hyde ever thought her husband was a murderer. She did, however, toward the end of her husband's life, take up a separate residence, deciding to move out one day when the soft-spoken physician recommended some medicine for an upset stomach.

EXCLUSIVE Hinckley Tells Enquirer How He Plans to Kill Jodie Foster

By DARY MATERA Copyright © 1982 by National Enquirer, Inc. All Rights Reserved.

In a chilling poem sent exclusively to The ENQUIRER, Presidential assailant John Hinckley threatens to murder actress Jodie Foster — and describes exactly how he's going to do it.

The shocking handwritten poem — entitled "Bloody Love," by John Hinckley Jr. — contains the lines:

"Look here at my bloody knife ... I think I'll stab you first ... Deep into your bloody heart ... It should quench my thirst."

Hinckley's bizarre poem, sent in response to an interview request by an ENQUIRER reporter, is "a very serious warning" that the man who stalked the President will try to murder the teen actress if released from custody, says a Harvard psychiatrist.

Hinckley, judged not guilty by reason of insanity in the shooting of Ronald Reagan, sent a brief letter — enclosing the poem — from St. Elizabeths Hospital in Washington, D.C., where he's confined for psychiatric treatment.

Both documents were examined by two handwriting analysts. They compared them to a sample of Hinckley's handwriting that appeared in a New York newspaper, and verified that both documents were written by the same person.

Here is the complete text of Hinckley's terrifying poem:

Bloody Love
By John Hinckley Jr.
1982

Jodie is my bloody love
A virgin till she dies
I am still her favorite fan
The one with bloody eyes

Jodie stands in front of me
Making all my dreams
Suddenly she sees my face
I smile as Jodie screams

Bloody thoughts go through my mind
As Jodie cries in vain
She knows her bloody boyfriend
Is hopelessly insane

I reach out to take her hand
But Jodie backs away
Shivering and still in tears
Jodie starts to pray

"Lord," she says, "I need your help
Please don't let me die
Hinckley wants to kill me now
And I don't quite know why"

Jodie ends her bloody prayer
And wonders what's in store
What is it I plan to do
To such a bloody whore?

"Forget about the sacrifice"
I tell her in a rage
"Forget about your future life
On silver screen and stage

I have come to shoot you down
With my bloody gun
You shall die and I shall die
God's will must be done

Look here at my bloody knife
I think I'll stab you first
Deep into your bloody heart
It should quench my thirst"

Jodie falls into my arms
As I plunge my sword
I've decided she must die
As if I'm now the Lord

Jodie lies in virgin blood
Innocent and dead
The gun I fondle in my hands
Is aimed now at my head

I pull the trigger and I fall
Beside the girl I love
It's the perfect way to die
I call it bloody love

Poem Proves Hinckley's Still Dangerous, Say Psychiatrists

The shocking poem sent to The ENQUIRER by John Hinckley proves that he shouldn't be released into society — and his threat to murder actress Jodie Foster poses real danger, say two top psychiatrists.

"It would be foolhardy not to take this seriously," said Dr. Quentin R. Regestein, associate professor of psychiatry at Harvard Medical School.

"Based on the evidence, I would harbor discomfort and concern for Jodie Foster's well-being. There is reason to believe that Hinckley actually wishes to carry this poem out. I would take this as a very serious warning. Based solely on the poem, I would feel it's premature to consider the release of this person."

"He is insane," said Dr. Herbert Modlin, Nobel professor of forensic psychiatry at the world-famous Menninger Foundation in Topeka, Kans.

"If Hinckley were to be released at the present time, I would advise Jodie to be watchful."

"The fact that he can dream up a poem like this is a virulent fantasy and could be dangerous."

"Hinckley should not be released. He is in need of treatment, and (the shooting of the President)

"She not only rejected him, but ignored him. Now he feels he has nothing left to live for, so he wants to destroy her."

"It's an act of sexual passion with the knife and the sword."

"He feels that she has not been had by any man — except symbolically by himself with the penetration of knife and sword."

"And when Hinckley talks about the brutalization of Jodie in the line, 'It should quench my thirst ...' that's related to the idea of flowing blood and a thirst for vengeance."

"And there's the repetition of the word 'bloody' — 'bloody love, bloody eyes, bloody prayer and bloody whore'."

"You can not spill blood without an act of violence. That seems to be what John wants."

"And where he says, 'I've decided she must die ... As if I'm now the Lord,' Hinckley's saying he's a law unto himself — and not a part of society."

When asked if Hinckley is insane, Dr. Modlin replied, "I wouldn't give an opinion without examining him."

Concluded Dr. Regestein, "Hinckley has already committed a violent act. If we seriously comprehend the meaning of this poem, we should be horrified."

"I am not ashamed to admit that I was scared reading this poem."

should be kept in an institution until there is a marked and observable change in his behavior." Dr. Regestein: "I have a very strong reaction to the savageness and brutality of this poem."

"It's difficult to continue reading lines like, 'I think I'll stab you first ... Deep into your bloody heart.' It is very disturbing and frightening."

"This is a classic tale of idealized love."

"But the only way that John Hinckley and his idealized love can join is through death."

"And there's the sudden change of Foster from his

Rescue Turns Into Tragedy for 5 Who Were ... Sucked Under a Giant Tanker

A storm-tossed family of four and a friend thought they were about to be rescued at sea by an oil tanker — but then everything went horribly wrong and the mother, her son and the friend all drowned.

Only the father, Les Jeffery, 38, and his 13-year-old daughter Tracy-Leigh survived.

And Les says he owes his life to the brave girl, who kept him alert four long hours as violent waves pounded their bobbing bodies.

It started as a pleasant trip off the coast of Australia in the family's 47-foot sailboat. Then suddenly a huge storm erupted.

We plunged into 20-foot waves, in serious danger of capsizing," Les said. "I broadcast a 'Mayday' call — and I remember the pure joy we felt at midnight when the oil tanker Arthur Phillip moved alongside us.

"A rope ladder was lowered from the ship, which had slowed down.

"I was worried the children would get lost in the rough seas, so we tied a rope around our waists, with six-foot lengths between me, my wife Virginia, 35, Tracy-Leigh, my son Darren, 15, and my best friend Stewart Greenough, 27.

"Thank God," I thought. "Our ordeal is over. Up the ladder — and that's it!" I had no idea the real horror hadn't even started yet!

"I started up the ladder first. It was so cold and windy it was almost impossible to keep my balance. Suddenly, on the ladder below me, my wife lost her footing. At the same time, our boat moved and the other three toppled overboard.

"I was supporting all four. They were hanging like sacks of concrete below me, banging against the hull.

"I felt my grip on the ladder going. I toppled backward, into the churning sea.

"Even though we were wearing life vests," Les continued, "the five of us were being swept under the ship. 'Oh, my God!' I thought. 'We'll drown! I'll never see my family again!'

"I was being sucked down, as if some invisible force had a hold of my legs. I was a powerless toy figure in the awesome ocean.

"The rope was taut. I was

ONLY SURVIVORS of disaster were Les Jeffery and his daughter.

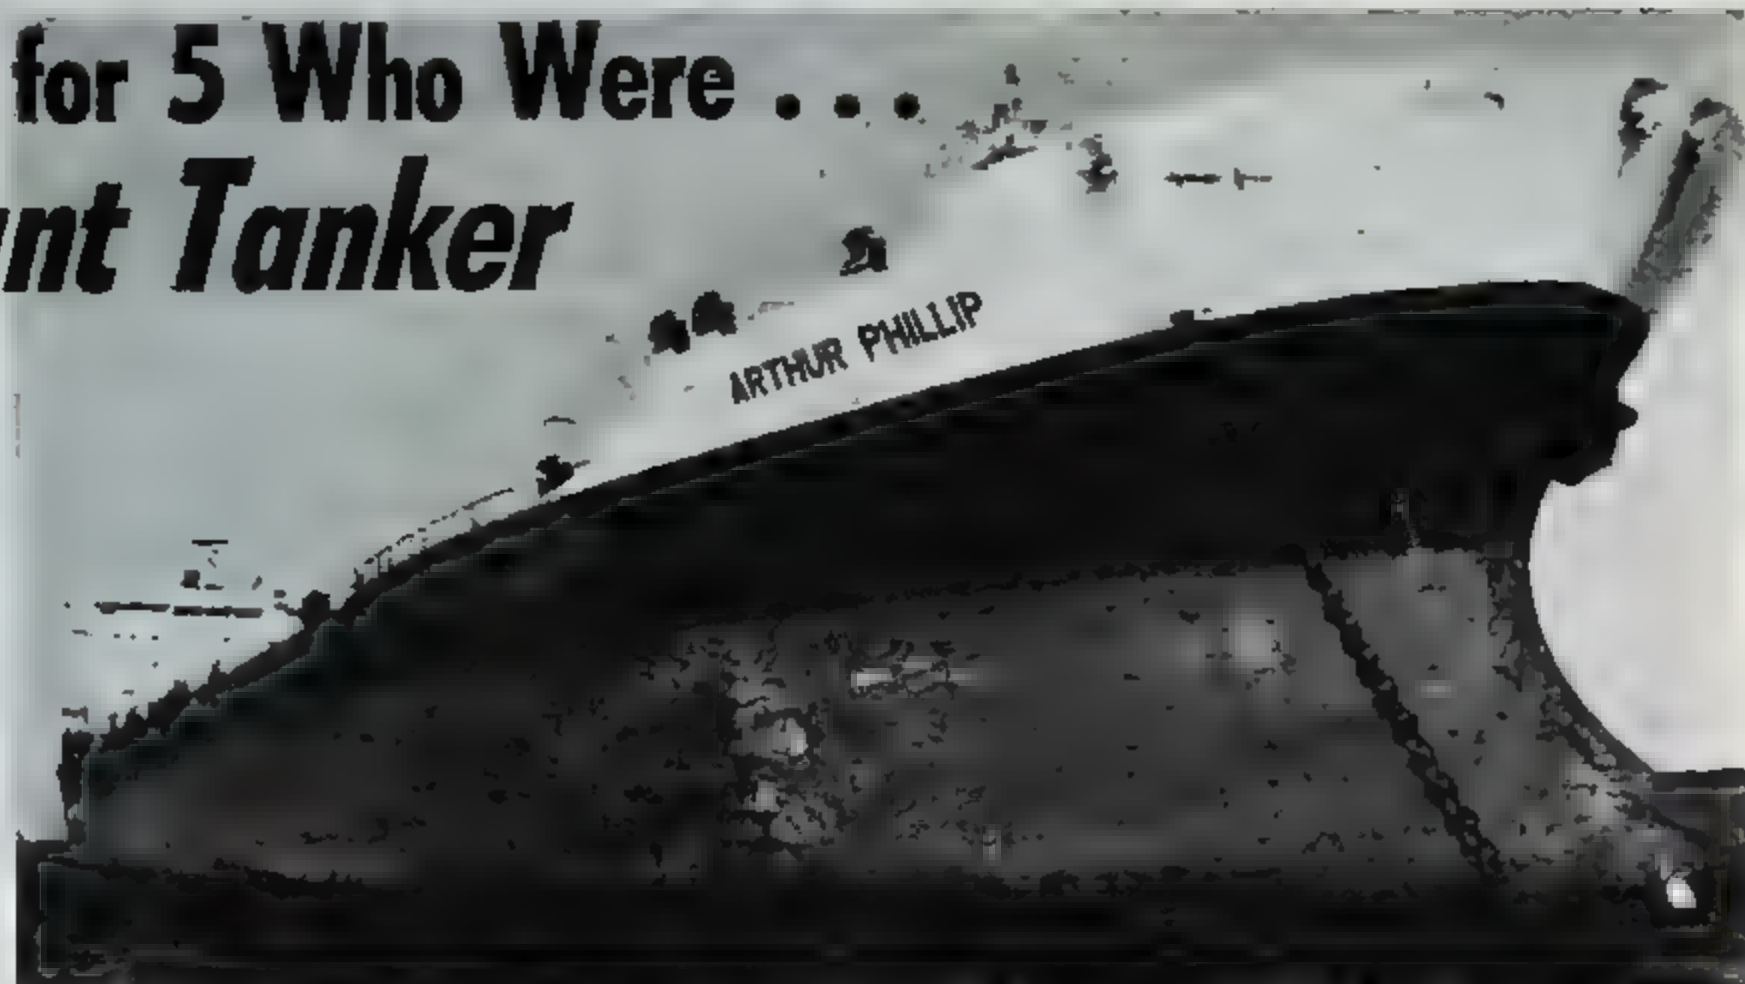

still attached to the others. 'Oh God, if they die, let it be quick!' I prayed. I somersaulted over and over under the water, like a piece of clothing in a washing machine.

"Above me I saw the red strip along the bottom of the ship. I was right under the tanker! Several times I felt myself drift upwards — and the ship would give me a gentle nudge back down.

"My lungs were bursting. I saw white — like the screen at the end of a film. This was the end of my life."

Tracy-Leigh was also being tossed like a rag doll under the ship. "I noticed the bottom was covered with barnacles," she said. "It seems amazing, but I was wondering why they hadn't scraped them off!"

TANKER Arthur Phillip attempted rescue in dark and storm-tossed seas off the coast of Australia.

Les and Tracy-Leigh broke to the surface, gasping for breath.

"I could see Dad," said Tracy. "My mom was drifting below the water. I realized she was dead. My brother and Stewart were nowhere. The rope linking us had snapped.

"I felt no grief for Mom. That came later. But I was determined to keep Dad alive."

To Tracy-Leigh's horror, the tanker plowed on its way — taking with it their last hope of rescue.

"We watched the tanker's lights get smaller as it moved away. They'd obviously seen us getting sucked under the ship and assumed we'd drowned. They didn't spot us coming up again, despite training lights on the water.

"But we didn't know a rescue vessel was preparing to set out from the coast, 12 miles away. The tanker radioed them to come look for our bodies."

As the waves tossed Les and Tracy-Leigh around like corks, one thought filled Les' half-conscious mind — "I'm dead."

But then, through his mental haze, "I heard a voice telling me restful, peaceful stories from my past. I thought I was in heaven."

Those "voices" Les heard were Tracy-Leigh desperately trying to keep her father's mind alert as he drifted in and out of consciousness.

"I told him about a pinball parlor we'd visited — and how Dad got hooked on the games. 'We couldn't drag you away, Dad,' I said.

"I kept telling stories. I was so worried. We had our arms around each other. It was dawn, half-light. I wondered how long I could keep talking to Dad — how long before we'd both die.

"Then without warning, four hours after the tanker left, there were voices. It was the rescue boat alongside us. They hauled us — and Mom's body — aboard. Back on shore, we were taken to a hospital. They later found the bodies of Darren and Stewart."

That night of terror, which took place May 10, 1981, is still fresh in the minds of Les and Tracy-Leigh.

Said Les, "Now, each time I look at Tracy-Leigh I realize she saved my life. If I'd slipped into unconsciousness during those four hours, I don't think I'd have survived."

"There's no way I can ever let her know how intensely proud I am of her — and her bravery."

WOMEN, BEWARE!

Tranquilizers Can Ruin Your Sex Life

Tranquilizers can cause severe sexual problems in women, warn doctors.

But most of the time, women fail to connect the drugs with their problems — and their doctors don't ask.

"Many psychiatrists fail to recognize the sexual side effects of the drugs they prescribe. Also, they fail to ask their patients whether they are experiencing sexual side effects," says Columbia University psychiatrist Dr. Kathleen Degen.

"About 30 percent of the women I see who are on tranquilizers have some sexual impairment," Dr. Degen reported.

The problems include lack of sexual desire and excitement, lack of orgasm, and dryness and lack of lubrication which can make sex painful, said Dr. Degen, assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia. "Most women don't realize that their lack of sexual desire is being caused by tranquilizers," she said.

"There are women who live in fear. They're afraid their partner will leave them should they discover that sex hurts."

"Other women openly refuse sex because it has become less pleasurable. Some women I've encountered have broken romances or marriages because they are having sexual problems." Before prescribing tranquilizers, doctors should take a sexual history of their patients to be able to compare sexual functioning before and after taking the drugs, said Dr. Harold Lief, professor of psychiatry at the University of Pennsylvania.

"But most doctors don't take time to do that. Most health professionals are still embarrassed by sexual matters or they may not consider sexual matters important enough."

Said Dr. Degen: "Women do not have to suffer in silence. Normally, by changing the medication and working with your doctor, you can have the right medication and solve your sexual problems."

85G Shoes — But They Never Need a Shine

Here's a pair of shoes fit for a king — their estimated value is a whopping $85,000! They're fashioned out of about 4,000 perfectly matched rare Japanese white pearls.

Sewing them on by hand took some 200 man-hours. The shoes were made in 1977 at The House of Berluti in Paris for ex-Emperor Bokassa of the Central African Empire.

Can some people really "give you a pain"? Yes they can!

Many of the pains we feel when we're around certain people — headaches, stomach-aches, etc. — result simply from our emotional reaction to that person, clinical studies show.

Here are some more of science's fascinating findings about pain:

Q. Is it true that pain hurts less if you have a well-balanced personality?

A. Yes. Studies at the University of London have shown that an emotionally stable person tends to have a higher pain threshold. He scarcely feels pains which might give someone else a lot more distress.

Startling scientific discoveries about what hurts you ...

Q. Is it true that you can make any pain hurt less simply by relaxing?

A. Yes. When tension or anxiety are present, pain sensitivity increases significantly. But when subjects are induced to relax, their pain decreases, studies show.

Q. Is it true that you should never make an important decision when you have a headache?

A. Yes. Psychological tests have demonstrated that any kind of pain — headache, stomach-ache, backache — affects your ability to think, reason or weigh facts carefully. So if you have an important matter to decide, wait till that tooth stops hurting or your heartburn goes away.

Q. Does getting too little sleep make pain hurt more?

A. Yes. Studies have shown that the more sleep a person loses, the lower his pain threshold — causing a headache or a toothache to hurt more. So if you hit your thumb when you are tired, it will hurt more than if you were rested.

Tennis and Golf Stars Earn Staggering Pay By Plugging Products

Top tennis and golf stars bank a bundle in winnings, but they rake in far bigger bucks — up to a whopping $4 million a year — just by endorsing products.

Surprisingly, the superstars of baseball and basketball get peanuts by comparison when they try to cash in on their fame.

Tennis superstar Bjorn Borg received a handsome $189,000 in prize money last year — but also lobbied an estimated $4 million into his bank account by lending his name to everything from automobiles to soft drinks. Besides appearing in print ads, Bjorn banked big bucks just for using certain products.

His smashing windfall last year included $600,000 for playing with Donnay tennis racquets, $220,000 for wearing Diadora tennis shoes and $600,000 for wearing Fila tennis clothes.

Tennis "bad boy" John McEnroe won a smashing $681,000 in 1981, but he got $1 million for wearing Nike tennis shoes, sporting tennis outfits designed by Sergio Tacchini and allowing his picture to be used in a tennis racquet commercial.

Chris Evert Lloyd scored $1 million last year just for wearing Ellesse clothes and Converse shoes, and for letting her name be used on Wilson tennis racquets.

After tennis players, golf pros get the next biggest slice of endorsement money.

For instance, Jack Nicklaus' days as golf's top money-winner may be over, but he earns about $4 million annually just for endorsements, TV commercials and putting his name on golf courses he designs.

Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer, Tom Watson and Johnny Miller are among many top golf pros earning $200,000-plus for plugging golf items. Pro baseball and basketball players generally get less money.

Still, baseball's Pete Rose snared over $100,000 for using a Mizuno baseball glove and $25,000 for plugging Grecian Formula hair coloring.

But Kareem Abdul-Jabbar — who gets $1.2-million-plus shooting baskets for the Los Angeles Lakers basketball team — got only $15,000 for his United Airlines ad.

And pro football players are barely in the picture, an NFL Players Association spokesman said. They lack the national recognition advertisers want for products.

Information for this article was compiled by Bud Stanner, senior corporate vice-president of International Management Group, and Brian Redman of the sports management company, ProServ.

$4 MILLION
That's what superstar Bjorn Borg lobbied last year for endorsements.

$4 MILLION
Golf great Jack Nicklaus earns that yearly without sinking a single ball.

$1 MILLION
Chris Evert Lloyd made that much last year for promoting products.

Reader's Psychic Experience

My ESP Message Saved My Mom From Fire

Have you ever had a psychic experience? Then why not share it with ENQUIRER readers? If your story is published, we'll pay you $100. That's how much Isabel Stocks of Roseburg, Oreg., received for her intriguing story below. Just describe your experience in a brief letter, and be sure to include your name, address and phone number when you send it to: Psychic Editor, NATIONAL ENQUIRER, Lantana, Fla. 33464.

By ISABEL STOCKS

"Mother, mother, get out of bed... quick! Mother, wake up! There's something horribly wrong..."

My mom lives 7,000 miles away from me in a tiny village in Scotland. But I had this awful feeling she was in deadly danger and didn't realize it.

I was just closing my eyes to sleep one night last year when suddenly a cold shiver ran down my spine.

In my mind, I saw a bed. My mother was lying on it, smiling up at me.

I couldn't understand why she had suddenly come to my mind. Somehow I knew my mother was in terrible danger.

"Mother, get out of bed," I screamed as beads of perspiration poured down my forehead. I was awake, gazing at the ceiling, and I could see her lying there in bed.

"God, please help me," I prayed. "Give me the strength to warn her." But my mom just lay there in my horrible vision. "Mother, Mother, please hear me," I sobbed. "God, don't let her die. Please protect her."

Quite suddenly, I felt a burning sensation, as if I were very close to a roaring log fire. In an instant, the vision of my mother disappeared.

I was so worried, I couldn't sleep a wink. I just prayed over and over that Mom was all right.

My mother doesn't have a phone, so I couldn't call her to make sure she was O.K.

But five days later I got a letter from her.

"I was sound asleep last night when I had this strange dream," she wrote me.

"You were shouting at me, but I couldn't understand you at first.

"And then I heard you say, 'Get out of bed. Get out of bed.'"

"I woke up and smelled smoke. Something was crackling."

She said she turned on the light and leaped out of bed.

SOMETHING CLICKS when we're together, says Robert Blake, shown with new love Madlyn Rhue.

Baretta & Actress — Once Old Friends, Now It's Love

Robert "Baretta" Blake and actress Madlyn Rhue have fallen in love — 25 years after their first date!

"Something just clicks when we're together. I love Madlyn," Blake told By ANGELA BROOKS

And in an exclusive interview, Madlyn — who's appeared in several movies and TV shows — said, "Bobby is the dearest man!"

Blake, 49, dated the 48-year-old character actress years ago. Later he married his wife Sondra and had two children. But he and Sondra split up in 1977 and, after some failed reconciliation attempts, have again separated.

"Bobby was my first boyfriend 25 years ago," said Madlyn. "When he separated from Sondra the first time, I saw him. Then they got back together. Then when they split up again about three months ago, we started dating again."

A close friend of Madlyn told The ENQUIRER, "This time it's definitely over between Blake and his wife and definitely on between Madlyn and him. It's blossomed into true love. And Madlyn was absolutely bubbling when she told me, 'I'm in love with him, and he's in love with me.'"

A good friend of the couple said, "Madlyn isn't just another dippy actress. She's intelligent. She has a lot of soul and she's very sensitive. 'They love to get away and just be alone together. Madlyn told me that they most enjoy unwinding at dinner at a little out of the way restaurant where Bobby is sure he won't be recognized.'"

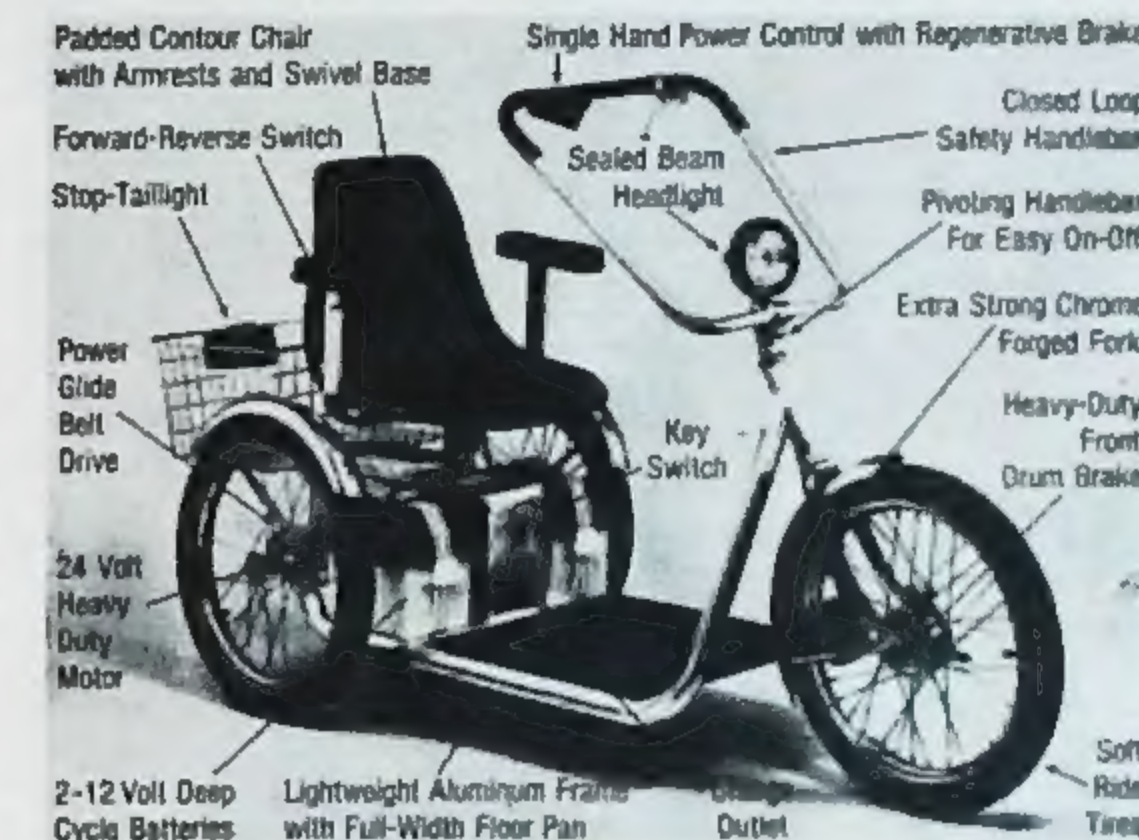

Blake has "really fallen hard" for Madlyn, added another of his good friends. "He's in love like I've never seen him before. He told me, 'I've flipped for Madlyn.'"

3-WHEELING TO INDEPENDENCE!

With CYCLE-CHAIR, the New Aluminum Electric 3-wheeler that is different and safer. It's so easy to handle you control on-off, forward-reverse, speed, and steering, with just ONE HAND!

Fred Prosch wanted to keep his independence after he stopped driving a car. He said he needed safe, reliable transportation he could afford. He found it. Read what he says about it!

I'm a senior citizen and use my Cycle Chair for local transportation. It's very comfortable, easy to operate and has two safe speeds—6 mph and 15 mph. I take it to the store, to the bank, the post office and also to ride to just enjoy myself and get some fresh air. I feel it's better than driving a car and much less expensive, too.

Find Freedom on the Cadillac of 3-Wheelers

Go Shopping—Beat high gas prices when you use Cycle Chair for local errands. Go to the store and right down the aisles in comfort and style. 28" width fits through most doorways and the large parcel basket holds days worth of groceries.

Visit Friends—Surprise your neighbors and relatives when you ride up to their doors on a Cycle Chair. Go to local events, club meetings, or social activities to meet with friends or make new ones. R. M. of Eugene, Oregon writes, "In the past few weeks I've met more people than in the last 10 years that I have lived here."

Go Sightseeing—Take it with you on vacation or just ride for fun around the park. The powerful electric motor cleanly and quietly tames tough hills and the low center of gravity design makes Cycle Chair safe on all types of terrain. For transporting, the seat lifts out and the handlebar folds flat to fit in most cars. Now you can go where you want to when you want to.

Ride with Others—Join the family or a group of friends for a get together on wheels. A choice of two speeds, 6 mph and 15 mph, lets you set the pace so the others have to keep up with you. When you want to stop simply release the single hand power control and the regenerative brake automatically brings you to a safe smooth stop.

Easy to Maintain—Plug in Cycle Chair at home overnight to recharge for less than 10¢ of electricity. The charger automatically shuts off when batteries are full. There are no oil changes, spark plugs or engine breakdowns to worry about.

The Boy Who Became a Dog

He's a little boy — but he thinks and acts like a dog!

Two-year-old Joel Zacarias, his body racked by hunger, was suckled by stray dogs for an entire year in a remote, dirt-poor Philippines village — until the boy actually became one of them.

Instead of learning how to talk, he learned to bark and snarl. He walked on all fours, scratched furiously at imaginary fleas, and scurried around chasing and biting other children.

"In 22 years as a social worker, I've seen odd cases — but never anything like this. You don't expect to see anything like this," said Zenaida Chantiaco.

Joel's amazing case came to light earlier this year when he was admitted at age 3 to the University of Santo Tomas Medical Center in Manila.

Chantiaco, who works in the hospital's pediatrics section, vividly remembers the day Joel was brought in: "The child was barking, biting, snarling, scratching. I was shocked. It sent chills right through me. Joel thought he was a dog. It was like a horror movie come to life."

It's a case set against a background of bone-grinding poverty in a remote farming village on the island of Leyte, where Romeo Zacarias and his wife Nenita tried to eke out a living from the soil.

There was never enough to eat. So the young couple left their son Joel, 2, and also his three sisters with their grandparents and traveled to Manila to find work.

"After a year we returned home to fetch our children," said Nenita, 28, "and we couldn't believe the situation we found."

Romeo, 32, said: "The children's grandmother took us aside and told us to prepare for a shock. She said she had not been able to feed the children properly because floods washed away the crops."

"She said one day she saw Joel crouched at the side of a dog that was feeding its young. There he was — nursing with the puppies — and the old woman didn't stop him because there was no food in the house."

The dog was one of many strays that hung around outside the house, where Joel played. According to his grandmother, Joel nursed from this dog for a year. But experts believe she's mistaken — and that Joel actually nursed from several strays that looked alike.

Not long after Joel began nursing, he began acting like a dog.

Said Romeo: "His grandmother told us he would bark exactly like a dog whenever strangers approached the house."

"What's more, he'd bite the kids who lived nearby when they tried to play with him and he wasn't in the mood. He'd nip them on the ankles and snarl, running on all fours."

Joel's parents were so stunned to hear all this, they weren't sure they believed the grandmother's story.

But the big shock was soon to come.

"The day after we arrived back in Manila," said Romeo, "we visited relatives who had a dog that was suckling a litter of puppies. We had only been there for a few run around on all fours, barking furiously at the other kids. He'd scratch himself wildly, just like the dogs he identified with.

"But now he's changing. He says 'mama' and 'papa.' "By the time he left the hospital, he was barking only once or twice every few days. His other dog-like behavior also dwindled."

Said Nenita: "All we want now is to have Joel grow up like a normal child."
